FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

A General Engagement on Sunday or Yesterday.

Desultory Skirmishing Along the Advanced Positions.

The Position of the Two Armies Unchanged.

Removal of the Wounded to the Washington Hospitals.

Some Seven Hundred Prisoners Captured by Us.

Engagement Between the Gunboats and a Rebel Battery.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Dec. 16, 1862—11 o'clock.

There was considerable firing yesterday, between picquets of the two armies.

About 11 the rebels showed a disposition to move upon Franklin's forces.

Shortly the rebels would throw a few shells among our troops, just to remind us that they were [illegible].

Yesterday afternoon, everything was quiet. Our troops attacking this morning, with considerable vigor.

The body of Gen. Reynolds left for Washington to-day. His wife is here both mourning and waiting.

HEADQUARTERS, Monday, Dec. 15—7 P. M.

This weather to-day has been clear and warm, with a slight moderating wind. The roads are in very good condition.

The enemy's fire by few strong reports nearly the whole day. There was not much artillery firing this afternoon on either side. Slight shots the rebels did fire, were from their left.

Our troops, who are in plain view, are not idle, but busily employed in strengthening their position.

Our loss in the affair of Friday, was somewhat less than was at first supposed. As the removal of the wounded from the field, as fast as the removal of the dead, we could hardly come to an accurate estimate.

Our loss in killed and wounded will probably not exceed three thousand.

The rebels have lost many times that number.

Our loss in prisoners will be less than that of the rebels.

Our cavalry crossed the river.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Dec. 15.

A large number of the wounded from Fredericksburgh are expected here to-night or early to-morrow. A number of steamers have been dispatched to Aquia Creek for that purpose. The hospitals here are being rapidly cleared of such as are able to bear removal, to make room for the fresh comers.

Gen. Varnum, who is severely, but not dangerously, wounded in the side, is here under the care of his father, Dr. Varnum, who came on this morning.

SUNDAY'S FIGHT ON THE RAPPAHANNOCK.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Dec. 15.

On Wednesday evening, our gunboats at Port Royal (about twenty-seven miles from Fredericksburgh) fired shot into by a rebel battery from the right, supposed to mounted twenty heavy guns.

One of the rebel shots struck a coal schooner, wounding Capt. Stanton, who has since died.

Another shot struck the Overland on the inboard side, passing into the engine-room and wounding E. B. Jones, of Rhode Island, who has since died; also, wounding Journeyman Dixon dangerously, and two others slightly.

The firing was very rapid and continued, until range of the rebel battery were silenced.

The gunboats, at the commencement of the fight, were not nearly in range of the rebel guns, near the shore, but were brought off safely by the Tuesday.

The gunboats laid off the shore until morning, when they again opened upon the rebel battery, but met with no response.

THE OPERATIONS OF FRIDAY.

Continual Skirmishing Throughout the Day—Upwards Two Hundred of our Men Killed and Wounded, &c.

From Our Special Correspondent.

FREDERICKSBURGH, Va., Friday, Dec. 12, 1862.

As I stated in my last letter, the National troops occupy the town of Fredericksburgh. During the preceding night FRANKLIN's and a portion of BURNSIDE's Grand Divisions passed over the river and bivouacked on the opposite bank. Skirmishers were sent to reconnoitre the several streets, and met with much opposition from the rebel sharpshooters, who were posted behind buildings, chimnies and fences. The night was quite dark, and it was with considerable difficulty that the rebels could be discovered in their hiding-places. The skirmishers, however, understood their duty, and displayed much courage in ferreting out the foe. They finally gained their point, and drove the rebels out of the town. As may be naturally supposed, our loss in casualties was not light. Numbers of our men were shot dead, and a great number, considering the nature of the fight, wounded. During the day and evening our casualties were about 200 killed and wounded. The rebel loss cannot be estimated, as they removed their killed and wounded before we got possession of the place.

This morning our troops were massed on the two principal streets of the town running parallel with the river. The upper portion of the town was occupied by the skirmishers, while just at the outside the pickets were stationed. Our force has not made any material change in position to-day. FRANKLIN's troops are bivouacked at the lower end of the place. The troops have not as yet ventured far to the upper end of Fredericksburgh, in consequence of the rebel sharpshooters being in position some five hundred yards distant.

This morning, while the rear of SUMNER's column was passing over the upper pontoon, the rebels opened fire from guns in their second tier of earthworks. The shots were well directed, but fortunately our men escaped injury. After firing a few rounds, the rebels ceased. Our batteries near Falmouth replied, and possibly had much to do in silencing the enemy's guns. Nearly all of our batteries, which were planted along the river bank yesterday, were taken across the bridges to-day. They were not, however, excepting those which accompanied FRANKLIN's troops, placed in position, but remained upon the streets, their commander awaiting orders.

This afternoon HOOKER's troops appeared at the upper bridge for the purpose of crossing. The rebels immediately opened a heavy fire upon them. The order was at length countermanded and the troops were marched down to the vicinity of the lower bridge upon which FRANKLIN crossed, and upon which they will cross early to-morrow morning.

To-day, Gen. FRANKLIN sent out artillery and skirmishers to the left of the rebel fortifications. They were met with a vigorous fire from the rebel guns, and made but little progress toward an advance.

Four companies of the Eighth Illinois Cavalry, under Major BEVERIDGE, made a reconnoissance toward the rebel earthworks. They went sufficiently near to count the guns—eight in number—in one battery. The rebels did not offer to fire upon them, probably from the fact of their being unable to depress their guns to the proper degree.

Lieut KENNEY, of the Sixth United States Cavalry, with four men, forded the river just above Fredericksburgh. The water was ascertained to be four feet deep, which rendered the crossing of artillery and supply wagons by the same means impracticable. It is decided that the entire army must cross the river over bridges. There are now four bridges constructing, two at the upper and two at the lower end of the town.

The appearance of Fredericksburgh after the severe cannonading it received yesterday can be readily imagined. Hardly a house stands that has not been penetrated by more or less shots. In the midst of all the shelling, however, some of the citizens remained in their houses, taking refuge in the cellars. Among the citizens I notice a few women. No reliable information could be obtained from the inhabitants in regard to the position and strength of the rebels. As near as I could learn the town was defended yesterday by two Mississippi Regiments, one of which was the Seventeenth.

The number of prisoners taken yesterday and to-day amount to over two hundred. A deserter came in this morning. He reports that the rebels have their lines of earthworks extending a distance of two miles. They are so built as to command every street leading from the river.

Our next movement will be to flank the rebels on their right. Gen. BUTTERFIELD has issued orders to his Staff, to-night, to prepare themselves with five days' rations, it being the intention to pursue the enemy until he is forced to fight or surrender. This order would imply that it is not impossible that the enemy may evacuate his position before morning. It is considered a singular circumstance that he has not opened upon us with more continuous and vigorous fire. It is the intention to cross Gen. HOOKER's Grand Division in the morning. The three Grand Divisions will then be across the river. To-morrow a strenuous effort will be made to take the rebel earthworks. If the rebels stand we shall certainly have a terrible conflict.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Illegal Arrests—Charge to the Grand Jury by Recorder Hoffman.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.
Before Recorder Hoffman.

At the opening of the Court yesterday morning the following Grand Jurors were impanneled for the remainder of the term, the Grand Jury impanneled in the Court of Oyer and Terminer having been in session for two weeks [illegible]:

JAMES W. UNDERHILL, Foreman.
[illegible] Leveridge, Isaac Meling, [illegible] Oliver Chadick, Norman Francis, [illegible] Hoyt, E. H. Hopkins, [illegible] O. White, [illegible] Goodwin.

[illegible] in consequence of the ex[illegible] to the community for some time past [illegible] to arbitrary and illegal arrests, he had [illegible] the Recorder, in his charge to the Grand Jury, to make special reference to the subject, and to [illegible] the Jury with regard to the laws and their duty in the premises.

Recorder HOFFMAN then charged the Jury upon the usual subjects required by the Statutes to be touched upon, and made special reference to the subject of illegal arrests by the District-Attorney, as follows:

At the close of the last week the District-Attorney requested me in my charge to you to-day to give you special instructions in relation to the laws of this State against kidnapping. He intimated to me that cases had been brought to his notice in which it was alleged that persons had been arrested, and which he would probably feel bound to submit to your consideration and [illegible] requested to-day. I deem it my duty to give you the desired instructions, and I shall do so briefly and yet plainly. It is so generally reported and believed that for many years [illegible] persons have been arrested, and forcibly carried out and removed from this State, against their will, that great importance attaches to the subject under consideration. At the [illegible] there have been made under the [illegible] of lawful authority that it [illegible] necessary to define and state the law with [illegible] understanding. That law, as I shall now state it, will, I think, commend itself to the good sense of all who will examine it without prejudgment, and will be the law of this Court while I preside in it, until reversed, if reversed it ever shall be, by some higher tribunal. The Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of New-York have guaranteed to all citizens the [illegible] and [illegible] and the laws of this State in substance declare that whoever shall violate this constitutional guarantee shall be deemed guilty of a felony. The statute provides [illegible] section 20, as follows: Every person who shall, without lawful authority, forcibly seize and confine, or kidnap, or shall kidnap or kidnap any other, with intent either:

1. To cause such other person to be secretly confined or imprisoned in this State, against his will; or
2. To cause such other person to be sold as a slave, or to have such person to service against his will, shall be deemed guilty of kidnapping, and be punished by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding ten years.

Whoever, within this State, arrests a person charged with an offence alleged to have been committed against the laws of the State or of the United States, is bound to convey the person so arrested, without delay, before the proper magistrate, or other judicial officer within the State, to be dealt with according to law. Any seizure of the person of a citizen for any other purpose is without lawful authority, and any detention or confinement of a person so arrested for any longer time than may reasonably be required to convey him before such officer, is also without authority of law.

The removal of any person from this State into any other State or Territory, to answer to any charge of having committed some act or offence against the laws of either the United States or the State, is without the authority of law. And every person, whether he be an officer or private individual, who shall seize and confine any person whomsoever, charged with having committed any crime within the State, with intent either secretly to confine or imprison him here, or to remove him out of the State against his will, acts in violation of the statute I have just read to you, and renders himself liable to indictment and imprisonment. Upon the trial of such indictment, the fact that such person complained and relieved was by order of the President of the United States, or any member of his Cabinet, or other officer of the Government, will constitute no legal defence. Neither the President, nor any member of the Cabinet, or other officer, (not judicial,) has any lawful authority to order the seizure or imprisonment, or removal from the State, of any citizen of the State, for any offence whatever, committed, or alleged to have been committed, within its borders. I need hardly add that the arrest and imprisonment of any person not charged with any crime, no matter by whom, or by whose order the same is made, is in violation of the Constitution and laws. The Constitution of the United States declares that in criminal prosecutions the accused shall have a speedy trial by jury, in the State or district where the crime shall have been committed; and the seizure of any person, and his removal against his will from his State or district, is in violation of this provision of the Constitution, and in violation of any statute without lawful authority. There are constitutional and statutory provisions in relation to fugitives from justice. When an offence has been committed, or alleged to have been committed, in another State, and where the offender is found in this State, provision has been made by act of Congress, in pursuance with and obedience to constitutional requirements, for his arrest and return to the State from which he has escaped. In such cases the Governor of the State in which the offence is alleged to have been committed may make a requisition upon the Governor of this State, accompanied by the necessary proofs; and, upon such requisition, the Governor of this State may issue his warrant for the arrest of the fugitive, by virtue of which he may be seized and returned to the jurisdiction from whence he has fled. In this way, and in no other, can he be lawfully seized and conveyed out of the State. Any person, whether he be an officer or not, who shall seize and imprison an alleged fugitive from justice, (except to await a requisition,) save without lawful authority; and if he shall seize and detain him against his will, with intent secretly to imprison him here, or to remove him out of the State against his will, except upon such requisition and warrant, he is guilty of a violation of the statute I have read to you, and is liable to indictment and imprisonment. Upon the trial of such indictment, the fact that he acted by order of the President, or of any member of the Cabinet, or other officer of the Government, will constitute no legal defence. These statements are plain propositions of law, which cannot be disputed, applicable to our loyal State, in which the State Courts are in almost uninterrupted session, in which judge and magistrates are faithful to their oaths to support the Constitution of the State and the Constitution of the United States, in which the laws are ample for the punishment of all offenders as well as for the protection of all citizens—a State in which the Federal Courts are in almost daily session, with all their machinery in full operation; their judges and marshals and deputies ready to perform the duties and those process can always be enforced and whose judgments and decrees are always obeyed—a State in which the acts of Congress are never resisted, and whose people venerate and respect the Constitution and the laws. In such a State, no circumstances, not being the scene of actual military operations, not having even an army within its borders, not even any soldiery, excepting such as may be on their way to fight the battles of the Constitution and the Union, whose laws are not obstructed or defied; where no form of the "law martial" can, by any construction, be made applicable to any person not mustered into military service, it is my duty as a Judge to declare to you that the arrest and imprisonment of citizens against their will, their removal from beyond her borders without authority of law, to answer to criminal or other charges, their confinement in places beyond the reach of legal process, is in violation of the rights secured to them by the Constitution and by the laws, and it is the right and solemn duty of the Grand Jury to indict any person or persons who have in these respects offended against the law. I have now, gentlemen, discharged my duty. I leave you, under the obligations of your solemn oath, to the performance of yours. It may not be possible to present entirely the arbitrary and unlawful seizure and removal of the citizens of our State; but it is possible to convict and punish those who in this respect shall be found guilty of a violation of our laws.

Joseph Bennett and Marl Haubst pleaded guilty to grand larceny, and were remanded for sentence.

Anthony Dixon pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, and was remanded.

Ann Doherty, Johannah Darcy and Rosanna Brown pleaded guilty to petit larceny, and were remanded.

Henry Dubois pleaded guilty to an assault upon a colored woman named Elizabeth Edwards, and was remanded.

Reorganization of the Democracy.

MEETING OF THE CONFERENCE COMMITTEES—A NOVEL PLAN SUBMITTED.

The Conference Committees of Tammany and Mozart Halls met yesterday morning, at Tammany Hall, at 11 o'clock. Each Committee, composed of one delegate from each Ward, met by itself. At the Mozart Hall Conference meeting, Hon. FERNANDO WOOD presided, and, after a short debate, the following resolution was sent in to the Tammany Conference:

Resolved, That the Mozart Hall Democracy desires a union of the Democratic Party in the City of New-York, and deems it capable of being effected, based upon terms of equality.

The resolution elicited but little discussion, and a response was rendered: That Tammany Hall is equally desirous of a union, and solicits a conference committee of five from Mozart, to meet a similar committee from Tammany to talk over the matter. Mozart Hall then appointed Messrs. Lockwood, Allen, Fitzgerald, Philip Cozzens and Morgan L. Harris.

The Tammany Hall Committee, in the meantime, were occupied in drawing a plan [illegible] by Juan Rouzo. It was to the effect that the Conference committees under its auspices, and the delegates to all the Conventions to elected from the "election district instead of Wards, as heretofore, with the exception of the Judiciary Committee, which were to have added "fifty reputable lawyers in addition to the regular delegates." The plan was not well received, as it was supposed to decentralize, when centralization is the great object sought to be attained.

In addition to the Committee of Five, the Chairmen of each, Hon. FERNANDO WOOD and WM. M. TWEED, Esq., were absent. Mr. TWEED has not yet selected his entire Committee, but three having been as yet announced, viz., Hon. [illegible] SYMONS, Tammany FALLON and F. I. A. ROZEA. The general opinion prevails among the members of both bodies, that no union will be effected, but rather that a plan will be agreed upon, recommending that delegates be elected in each Ward, and Mozart Conventions, and that the matter of selecting candidates be completed by Sub-Committees from their body.

This will, however, give but little satisfaction to the masses of the party, who had earnestly hoped for a general union, with a new ball to be erected somewhere up town. The Committee will meet this morning at Tammany Hall, at 11 o'clock, to discuss some suitable plan, when something more definite may be decided upon.

Tammany Hall.

A meeting of the Tammany Society, was held last evening, at the Old Wigwam, for the purpose of receiving the banner of the Tammany Regiment, that floated in many battle-fields, from Bull's Run, the Peninsula, and the whole campaign. Capt. HOWLAND, of the Forty-second (Tammany) Regiment, was the honored bearer of this relic in the fathers of the regiment. After the meeting was organized, and the warriors arrayed in their regalias, a Committee of Three was appointed, consisting of Hon. ELIJAH F. PURDY, C. M. SAINT and SHERIF LYNCH, to conduct the gallant veterans, accompanied by Capt. JAMES MCGRATH, J. W. TOBIN and Lieut. M. DONNEY, to the Great Wigwam, where the gallant defenders of Tammany's banner were received with vociferous applause. Addresses of welcome were made by the Grand Sachem, Hon. NEHEMIAH, on behalf of the Tammany Society, and responded to by Capt. DOWNING, in a modest manner. As this flag has seen service in the whole campaign, and carried by the decimated ranks of this brave regiment at the battles of South Mountain and Antietam, without being captured by the enemy, but always leading on the gallant boys, the Society has voted to place it in safe custody with the other relics of the ancient Columbian Order of St. Tammany.

After the Captain and his companions in arms had retired, the Society met into Session, for the transaction of business and election of members.

A Cruel Slander Stopped.

An evening paper gave currency last night to a most cruel and false statement concerning JOHN DEAN and his wife née BOZER. The case is not as stated by the paper referred to. The couple are living together in a neighboring city. Mr. DEAN's income is larger than that of the individual who wrote the libel. Mrs. DEAN, as Lady Inspector of the Customs, adds revenue to their mutual purse, and if the public Press will not interfere with their cheerful home, they will need nothing further at its hands.

The Gift of Nevada Territory to the Sanitary Commission.

UNITED STATES SANITARY COMMISSION,
NEW-YORK AGENCY, No. 823 BROADWAY,
NEW-YORK, Dec. 12, 1862.

The magnificent contribution of Nevada Territory to the Sanitary Commission for our sick and wounded is eight bars of silver and gold bullion, valued at $25,000, and exhibited at the Academy of Music on Thursday evening by Dr. BELLOWS, will be on exhibition at BALL, BLACK & Co.'s splendid establishment for the next week.

INSPECTION AND REVIEW.—Yesterday afternoon the annual inspection of the First Regiment National Guard, Newark Brigade, took place at Newark, under the orders of Brig.-Gen. RUNYON. The regiment, owing to the large number of its officers and men who have gone to the war, was able to muster but five companies, numbering altogether but 147 men, presenting a melancholy contrast to the full and gallant array they were wont to exhibit in other years. The regiment was under the command of Col. PARKWALL, the inspection being performed by Brigade-Inspector Maj. Gunn. We learn that an effort is being made by the regiment to induce the city to take the old malleable iron foundery, in Nesbitt-street, and fit it up as a drill-room, it being very spacious and well adapted for the purpose.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Alderman Beele—

Whereas, The Central Park is the property of the Corporation of the City of New-York, but is now under the control of a commission of individuals not elected or appointed by any local authority of our City, but imposed through the votes of representatives in the Legislature of other parts of the State, against the protests of our own representatives, and for the purpose of controlling power upon a political party in harmony with the legislative majority, but opposed to the large majority of our citizens; and

Whereas, This Commission, created at the State Capital, have taken the absolute control of the territory of the park, as a separate government, and have established laws, ordinances and rules, in violation and defiance of the government elected by the people of the City, and in pursuance of the authority of the State Legislature have expended an enormous amount of money in said park, improvidently, wastefully and extravagantly, by making contracts without public competition, by giving large jobs to favorites, by incompetent and unnecessary work, and by a general system of reckless expenditures through which the public debt and taxation upon our citizens have been enormously increased; and

Whereas, The said Commissioners, while professing to represent the interests of the City, have sought to deprive the City of its rights and rewards, and have sought to deprive the relatives and heirs in our City of the rights of property, and have sought to deprive the City of its rights in and over property, other than that in the Park, situated elsewhere, (for instance, in the Board filing government of Richmond County,) leaving the active control and expenditures of the funds in those who from the commencement of the enterprise have taken an unpaid interest in making the contracts and spending the money raised from the people of our taxpayers; and

Whereas, From the time the Government of this City was originally constituted, the sole and authority to manage and control the property has always existed in the City Government, the Executive Power in the Mayor, the power of granting the property of the City, or any part of its territory or property through the grants by authority of other actions of the State Legislature, or otherwise, is not only a total violation of the rights of self-government of the City, but is a violation of the Constitution of the State; and, whereas, by the Charter of the City of New-York, the Street Department is charged with the care of all the public places of the City, and it is the duty of the Street Commissioner, as head of that Department, to take charge of the Central Park, as well as the other public places, and to take charge of the expenditure and management of said Park; and

Whereas, We regret to say that the question of the sanitary condition of said Park, and how in the judgment of the expenditures thereon may be determined and controlled with the interests of the City, and the protection of the property and rights of the City Park; and

Resolved, That the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars be and is hereby appropriated for the relief of the sick and wounded soldiers who may be brought to this City from the battle-field at Fredericksburgh, and that His Honor the Mayor, the Comptroller and City Chamberlain constitute a Committee to dispense the money, if necessary, in such manner as they may deem most public to carry out the objects of this preamble and resolution.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Councilman [illegible]—

Whereas, The price of provisions and all the necessities of life have materially increased during the present year, and our patriotic laboring men have very generally received a corresponding increase of wages from their employers, consequently; and

Whereas, Our soldiers who are engaged in the most arduous employment have received no increase of pay, and to a considerable extent their families are exposed to unnecessary suffering; therefore

Resolved, (If the Board of Aldermen concur,) That the Governor of this State be respectfully requested to memorialize Congress, now in session, for an increase of twenty-five per cent on the pay of the rank and file and line officers of all the regiments from this City and State, now serving in the army of the United States.

And the same was laid over.

By Councilman Wheeler—

Whereas, The officers of the various steam fire engines have deemed it necessary for the proper protection of property in the center and upper part of the City, some central location should be designated and set apart as a supply depot for wood and coal for those fire engines while on duty at fires, and the expense incurred by the Street Commissioner in providing such depot located in the upper part of the City has indicated that the one now called for is actually and immediately required, and would itself pay for the expenditure required; and

Whereas, The house formerly occupied by Hose Company number Thirty-five, in Mercer-street, Bleecker-street, can be procured for such purpose at a very small cost, per yearly rental, and the state being the most desirable location that can be selected; therefore

Resolved, That the house lately occupied by Hose Company Number Thirty-five, in Mercer-street, Bleecker-street, be hereafter used and designated as a depot for wood and coal, to supply the steam fire engines doing duty in the upper districts when such supply is needed, and that a reliable person be appointed by the Street Commissioner, whose duty shall be to remain at such supply station both night and day, and to supply such quantity of wood and coal to all steamers doing duty at such places as may be designated, and, have full control of such station, under the direction of said Street Commissioner, for which he shall receive a compensation for services performed not to exceed the sum of one hundred dollars, and the same is chargeable to the appropriation of salaries, payable monthly, such compensation to date from the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, is hereby appropriated for such salary and expenditure.

Councilman Hogan moved that so much of said resolution be referred to Committee on Salaries and Offices.

Which was carried.

Report of Committee on Fire Department of Board of Aldermen, with resolution that the Clerk of the Common Council

Monday, Dec. 15—2 P. M.

The Weekly Averages of the Banks of the City of New-York, on Saturday, Dec. 13, 1862, present in the aggregate the following changes from the previous exhibit of Dec. 6:

Increase in Loans	$1,430,000
Decrease in Specie	956,814
Increase in Circulation	4,726
Increase in Uncleared Deposits	1,007,000

Including the Clearing-house operations of the week, which show the inter-exchanges between the Banks, and including also the Sub-Treasury balance at the close of the week, the following is the general comparison with the previous exhibit, and also with the movement this time last year:

	Dec. 13, 1861.	Dec. 6, 1862.	Dec. 13, 1862.
Capital	$60,056,000	$66,126,000	$66,126,000
Loans	157,007,708	172,021,968	171,453,957
Specie	30,400,078	28,798,268	27,842,454
Circulation	9,560,784	9,029,544	9,024,818
Gross Deposits	145,280,000	192,000,000	187,891,000
Exchanges	24,117,008	33,410,313	32,403,612
Uncleared	1,820,049	1,294,668	1,852,777
Due Sub-Treasury	4,003,013	10,317,000	9,326,943

The Bank return shows that the decrease in the list of Deposits has been checked, and that a moderate addition has been made to the line of Loans and Discounts. The Specie average falls off about a million of dollars, which, considering the advances to the Government on account of the January interest on the Public Debt, and the Export demand of the week, is much less than might have been anticipated. The statement, altogether, reflects an easier market for Money than the week previous. This morning about $700,000 from California was added to the supply of Gold. The Stock Brokers are getting Money on Demand Loan, without difficulty, at 6 ⅌ cent. ⅌ annum. The Banks are employing a portion of their balances in the 6 ⅌ cent. Certificates of Treasury Indebtedness, 12 months to run. The Department is liquidating Quartermaster's and other certified claims on the War and Navy Departments in the proportion of about 25 ⅌ cent. ready money to 75 ⅌ cent. in 12 months' paper. The total of the latter issued from the passage of the authority by Congress, last February, to Saturday, 13th inst., is about $96,092,000, to wit:

26,602 Certificates of $1,000 each	$26,602,000
13,490 Certificates of $5,000 each	67,450,000
Total	$96,092,000

The Stock and Gold markets were disturbed this morning by the news from the engagements at Fredericksburgh. Some of the accounts of Saturday's fight in the morning papers were construed unfavorably to the Federal arms, and buyers of Gold Coin advanced their bids to 132¼ ⅌ cent., as against 131¾ at the close on Saturday. The sales at the early Board, however, were at 132¼@132 ⅌ cent., and even this small rise was not sustained on the Street after the adjournment. The rates of Exchange on London were also nominally advanced early in the day, but as very little business was done, the quotation returned to 145½ ⅌ cent. The next mail for Europe goes by the China on Wednesday, direct from this port. Most of the business in Exchange goes over to-Tuesday, by which time further news from the Army is looked for, the tenor of which may possibly influence the course of the market for Gold. The price of Government Securities was not materially affected by the news to-day. The 6 ⅌ cents of '81, and the 7.30 ⅌ cents of '64, were about the same as on Saturday. The Share market opened ½@1 ⅌ cent. lower on most of the Railways, but without any great pressure to sell at this decline. At the early Board the business was dull in demand, rather than heavy in prices, and this indifferent feeling prevailed on the street between the sessions of the Board. The questionable news that Gen. Banks had landed in North Carolina, created some little excitement about noon, but later in the day it was believed that the force of Gen. Banks had been confounded by the telegraph with another movement upon Weldon and Petersburgh. Up to 2 o'clock, nothing of an authentic nature was announced from Fredericksburgh.

At the Second Board, and later in the afternoon, the general market continued dull, all parties seeming disposed to await further and more decisive Army news. The only prominent exception to the prevailing quiet in speculation is the stock of the Pacific Mail Company which continues to advance vigorously. The Eries are 1@1½ per cent. higher than on Saturday. Government securities are in fair request, and prices are steady as compared with the close of last week. Gold Coin left off at about the same as on Saturday night. The following were about the last quotations at 4½ o'clock in the afternoon.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

No general action was fought yesterday at any point, although, as on Sunday, there was considerable desultory skirmishing all day. Preparations were rapidly being made for the expected great conflict, which it appears must inevitably soon take place.

No news of an attack upon our gunboats at Port Royal, about twenty-seven miles below Pocotaligo, on Wednesday evening, by a rebel battery supposed to number twenty heavy guns. Very little damage was done to our vessels, and the rebel battery was soon silenced. In the morning the rebels had disappeared.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Press telegraphs to that paper a statement regarding the movements of the Expedition under Gen. Banks, which differs materially from that given by our own correspondent yesterday. According to his account—and it is given with considerable circumstantiality of detail—Gen. Banks has landed at Winton, in North Carolina, at the confluence of the Chowan River, formed a junction with the troops at Suffolk, and advanced against Weldon, with a view to subsequent operations against Petersburgh and Richmond. Gen. Foster is to cooperate with him,—he being, in fact, under command of Gen. Banks.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer states that the stories regarding Gen. Banks having landed anywhere near Richmond are entirely without foundation in fact. In reply to a question regarding his destination Secretary Stanton replied, "Banks will land in a good place."

Wheeler's Rebel Cavalry, about 400 strong, made a raid into Poolesville, Md., on Sunday night, and committed some depredations. Thirty-five National soldiers were quartered there in a wooden building, and a portion of them surrendered after a desperate resistance, and after the building had been set on fire. One of our men was killed and two wounded. The rebels lost two killed and thirteen wounded.

In his address to the rebel soldiers at Murfreesboro, Tenn., Jeff Davis told that the critical moment in the history of the Confederacy had arrived, and he relied upon their valor and patriotism to sustain her now more stronger than ever before. He said he had left the issue in Virginia in the hands of that able General, Robert E. Lee, which was the best he could do. In the Southwest his presence was most needed now. It is said that Davis is going to concentrate all of his troops on the west bank of the Mississippi for a desperate struggle. He is going to Arkansas to see Gen. Hindman and Holmes.

Gen. Frank sent into Hartsville prisoners and others for exchange, on the night of Dec. 12, and was sharply rebuked by Gen. Rosecrans for taking unworthy advantage of the exchange cartel, regarding Federal prisoners to be returned at Alton's Landing, on Vicksburgh. Other prisoners, making a total of 1,752, were sent in, including Lieut.-Col. Kerr, Seventy-fourth Illinois; Lieut.-Col. Stewart, Second Indiana Cavalry, was detained for special exchange. Col. Moore was not returned.

A special dispatch from Nashville says we lost 97 killed and about 120 wounded, and 1,900 prisoners, in the affair at Hartsville, Tenn. Three wagon-loads of muskets were afterwards retaken by our reinforcements. The enemy got about 30 wagons and teams, and lost about 50 men.

The Pittsburgh Chronicle has some interesting particulars regarding J. Wesley Greene, whose disclosures regarding peace overtures from Jeff. Davis are attracting so much attention. He was employed at japanning in that city, as he represents, was absent from Pittsburgh about the time when he states he was at Richmond, and was summoned to Washington by a dispatch from Secretary Stanton after his return. These circumstances are corroborative of his story, but the invalidating facts are, that when he first went to Pittsburgh he attempted to secure admission to a membership in one of the churches by presenting a forged certificate of connection "in good and regular standing" with some other church; and subsequent to his return from Washington he suddenly left the city to avoid arrest on a charge of having forged Secretary Stanton's name to an order for a costly set of furs. On Friday last Mr. Greene was arrested in Chicago on this very charge, but was subsequently discharged, because under the State laws false pretenses cannot be considered as felony.

Gen. Blair and Staff left St. Louis on Wednesday, for the Lower Mississippi. His brigade, embracing, as it does, some of the finest officers and men in the Western army, expect to participate in the expedition for the reduction of Vicksburgh and the opening of the Mississippi River.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate yesterday, petitions were presented in favor of a General Bankrupt Law, and protesting against the action of the Advisory Board of the Navy. The bill to abolish the grade of Medical officers was reported back from the Military Committee, with a recommendation that it do not pass. A bill to amend the Tariff and the Confiscation acts was introduced by Mr. Sherman, of Ohio, and referred. A bill to provide for the extinction of the Indian titles in Kansas, and to provide for the removal of the Indians, was introduced by Mr. Lane. A resolution was adopted, calling for the report and accompanying documents of Hon. Reverdy Johnson, as Commissioner at New-Orleans. A resolution of censure against Ex-President Buchanan, for his failure to prevent the rebellion, was introduced by Mr. Davis, of Kentucky, and laid over. A resolution to inquire whether some method cannot be devised to manifest the sympathy of Congress with the suffering Louisiana patriots, was ordered to be printed. The Judiciary Committee were instructed to inquire into the expediency of providing that any loyal citizen who has engaged in the rebellion, may recover such damages against any claim or demand against him in any action at law by any loyal citizen of the United States, or the agents or trustees of such citizens, etc. The resolution relative to the arrest of certain citizens of Delaware, was then debated until the adjournment.

In the House a bill to establish a postal money order system, was introduced. A bill to reduce the duties on paper from 35 to 30 per cent., was introduced by Mr. Colfax, of Indiana, and referred to Committee on Ways and Means. Mr. Noell, of Missouri, introduced a bill to procure the abolishment of Slavery in that State, with compensation to loyal owners. A resolution was passed declaring that there should be no legislation changing the existing laws providing for the payment of interest on the public debt in coin. A resolution was adopted directing the Committee of Ways and Means to inquire into the expediency of revising the Tariff so that the importation of foreign goods shall not exceed the amount exported of American growth and manufacture, exclusive of specie. A resolution was adopted indorsing the President's Emancipation Proclamation as a war measure. The Army Appropriation bill was reported from the Committee of Ways and Means, and made the special order for Thursday. Mr. Conway offered the series of resolutions published by us in our last Sunday's issue, but they were tabled, 152 to 1. The Illinois and Michigan Ship Canal bill was postponed until the first Tuesday in January. In view of grievous delays in the payment of soldiers, the Secretary of the Treasury was requested to furnish the House the reasons why the requisitions of the Paymasters are not promptly filled. A resolution calling upon the Secretary of War for information regarding the expenses of the contrabands, was referred to the Military Committee. The correspondence between the President and the Departments since the campaign of the Peninsula was undertaken, was called for. The Committee on Territories was instructed to inquire into the expediency of establishing a Territorial Government for the region of country in which are situated the Salmon River Gold Mines. The House soon afterward went into Committee of the Whole on the President's Message, and continued in Committee until the adjournment.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Board of Underwriters, and many gentlemen connected with various Insurance Companies in this City, paid an official visit yesterday to the Great Eastern. After examining her, they gave the agents of the Company, Messrs. Howland & Aspinwall, a certificate to the effect that she was in every respect seaworthy, and that the accident off Montauk Point was in no way attributable to Capt. Paton.

The Clerical Conference which was to have been held at Cooper Institute last evening was adjourned without any action having been taken, save an attempt (which failed) to exclude the reporters of the Press. "Advices just received from Washington" was the cause alleged for the adjournment. Most of the clergymen present were opposed to holding any meeting at all.

The Board of Aldermen had a brief but very important session yesterday afternoon, commencing at 5 o'clock. Mr. Boole introduced a long preamble and resolution, charging corruption and mismanagement upon the Central Park Commission, in giving out contracts without first inviting competition for them, asserting that some of the members are non-residents of the City, and giving direction to the Street Commissioner to assume control of the Park, and get possession of the papers pertaining to its management, with an appropriation of $5,000 to meet whatever expenses might arise in the course of such a proceeding. Mr. Walsh thought the whole proposition should be put aside till the Finance Committee should investigate the accounts of the Park Commissioners, as already ordered. Mr. Boole said that would cause a long delay. He wanted the Street Commissioner to obtain control of the Park NOW; the investigation could be made afterward. Mr. Farley vindicated the course and management of the Commission. The resolution was laid over, and made the special order for Wednesday. The resolution to increase the salaries of the Police Justices to $5,000 each per annum was adopted. Adjourned till 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Board of Councilmen met at 4 o'clock yesday afternoon, and concurred to have the transfer of the surplusage of certain appropriations to other accounts made, as recommended by the Comptroller. A resolution by Mr. Stevenson, to request the Governor to memorialize Congress for an increase of twenty five per cent. on the pay of the officers and soldiers in Government service from this State, in view of the recently increased cost of supporting their families, was adopted. Some time was spent in acting upon various routine matters, many of them relating to the Fire Department. A resolution for another wood and coal dépôt for steamers, to be located in Mercer-street, near Bleecker, was referred. The resolution to give Gen. Siegel a sword elicited some discussion, and was finally laid upon the table. A proposition for a like present to Gen. Meagher, was laid over under the rule. Adjourned till 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Aldermen as City Canvassers held their tenth and last meeting yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, when the declaration of results was finally made and ordered to be published in the Times and several other papers. The Board then passed a resolution of thanks to the Chairman, Mr. Boole, for the satisfactory manner in which he had presided, and then adjourned sine die.

The Councilmanic Railroad Committee gave another hearing, yesterday, in the matter of the Sixth-avenue Railroad Company putting down turnouts without authority and running cars without licenses. Wm. Ebbetts, the Superintendent of the road, appeared and claimed the right of the Company, by their charter, to put down all necessary turnouts and switches. He was unprepared, however, to point out the particular part of the charter granting this privilege. He also claimed the right of the Company to run extra cars, at occasional times, without licenses. The Committee were surprised at the liberality of Mr. Ebbetts' views. Other testimony was given by other parties, but it was mostly of an irrelevant character. The Committee adjourned without indicating what course they would take.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia North American writes: "I hear intimations that the late depredations of the Alabama were known to certain of our 'neutral' friends several days before the news was received here by the arrival from St. Thomas; but why they choose to suppress the facts is probably better known to themselves than any one outside their peculiar circle. Perhaps they did not regard themselves as 'newsmongers,' and for that reason kept the information a secret."

A number of men have been arrested and taken before United States Commissioner Carey at Xenia, Ohio, charged with uttering counterfeit postal currency of the denomination of fifty cents.

The Louisville Journal states that a large number of bales of cotton still remain in the fortifications around Nashville, and it urges that they should be at once removed and sent North for sale.

In accordance with orders from Gen. Wright, the Oregon Weekly Union, a rebellious sheet, has been excluded from the mails.

The Memphis Bulletin notes the operations of a band of thieves on the State Line Road, near that city. A company of ten men were dispatched under command of Lieut. Lavigne, toward White's Station in quest of them. Three of the gang were captured on Thursday, the 4th of December, near the Seven Mile Bridge. The citizens of the vicinity collected, and the fate of the men was placed in their hands. They adjudged that two of the prisoners, who had been recognized, should be shot. The order was immediately carried into effect. Before their execution, Lieut. Lavigne asked them what they had done with their booty, to which they replied that it was in the hands of their partners at Memphis. He offered them life and freedom if they would expose their accomplices, but they refused. The other prisoner was taken to the military prison at Memphis.

A largely increased force is to be put to work

Is there a Movement in the Enemy's Rear?

If there be any truth whatever in the statement made with such circumstantiality of detail this morning, that Gen. Banks has landed with twenty thousand men at Winton, N. C., pushed up to Suffolk, formed a junction with our troops there, and been joined by Gen. Foster's force from Newbern; and that this army is about to march up to Petersburgh, and from there obtain command at once of the James River and the rebel Capital—then we begin to see now what we have been looking for so long and eagerly—the development of a plan of campaign against the main rebel army, at once intelligible, comprehensive and hopeful.

We know pretty well that if Gen. McClellan had pushed up resolutely to Richmond after he landed on the Peninsula, that place would have been evacuated by the rebel army, which would then simply have fallen back to a point a short distance further South, there to fortify itself, obstruct our approach, and wait for our advance, when it would again either fight or retreat, as suited its convenience, or seemed most hopeful of success; and in this way they would draw us even further from our base, or compel us to form new bases, while every day's advance would increase our difficulties, every fight or skirmish would diminish our forces, and the enemy we should leave in the rear would soon inevitably become too formidable for our safety. We used to talk then about "driving the rebels" from Virginia down to and into the Gulf of Mexico; but it would have been a very long and embarrassing drive, and we fear this generation would not have seen the completion of the job.

The strategy that has suggested itself to every man for the last year, both while the rebels were at Manassas Junction, while they were massed around Richmond, while they were in the valley of the Shenandoah, and now that they are on the Rappahannock, has been, that of an army operating in their rear and in the rear of their Capital, as well as in their front. In each of these positions their case was or is such that, if an army, in addition to the army in their front, should seize and hold the line of the James River, they would be compelled to fall back from their strongholds under the greatest disadvantages, and yet would find a feasible retreat next to impossible. The railroad connections with the South would be in our hands, and the region of supplies in our control, while we should hold a defensive line of very great strength.

Our vast superiority in numbers, it was supposed, might easily enable us to detach or rather form a force for this work. Indeed, if the exhibit of the strength of our army, made in the report of the Secretary of War, bears any relation whatever to our effective strength in the field, it is evident that we could at any time mass a hundred and fifty thousand men in the enemy's front, and throw a force equally great in his rear or in the rear of his capital, without uncovering Washington or interfering with the fundamental operations in the Southwestern States. It has been recognized since the beginning of the war, that the main thing to be done was the capture of Richmond, and the people, at least, have been anxious that such military combinations should be made as would most speedily produce this result. It was felt that we might keep sending out military expeditions to capture this, that, and the other point in the Southern States, until, even if we have the million of soldiers which our army pay-rolls show, there would not be enough left for the defence of Washington against Stonewall Jackson. The concentration of forces for the capture of Richmond, the division of the forces into two great cooperating bodies, one on each side of it, seemed to every one who studied the map and comprehended the first principles of military law, the necessary mode of action against the rebel army of Virginia.

If the latest dispatch in regard to the location of the newly-formed army under Gen. Banks be true, it would seem that some such plan of operation is to be carried into effect. We trust that it may prove true, as we see no reason to entertain doubt of its speedy success. We do not imagine that Banks is likely to meet a very formidable rebel army on his march to Petersburgh, or when he gets there; and if once he gets himself well fortified on the southern bank of the James, with our gunboats running to Richmond, the occupation of that capital will be easy, and the evacuation of Virginia by the rebels will speedily follow.

Upon the reliability of the dispatch, however, it is impossible to decide. It is greatly opposed to advices we had previously, which gave Banks' expedition quite a different destination. We should certainly consider it a fundamental mistake to dispatch such a force to the Gulf at this crisis, while his union with the detached and almost useless bodies of troops at Newbern, at Suffolk, and on the Peninsula, would give us a new army of considerable proportions, a great part of it well seasoned to work, and capable, we think, of bringing to pass results more important in their bearing upon the rebellion than would be possible by using it in any other way or place.

The Non-Defence of the Rappahannock by Lee.

Much astonishment has been expressed in some quarters that Lee did not interpose a more serious resistance to Burnside's crossing of the Rappahannock. Save the covert efforts of a few hundred sharpshooters, and the occasional firing of a few batteries, he kept his great army absolutely idle during the twenty-four hours occupied in the construction of the bridges and the passage of our troops. It cannot be said that he was taken by surprise, or in anywise deceived by strategem. The operation was mainly performed with great deliberation in his full view, and without any special natural advantages on the side of his foe.

The explanation doubtless is that Lee belongs to that class of military men who believe rivers to be a bad military line. He prefers the fortified ridges of hills in the rear. These he will dispute with a tenacity of which he made no show near the banks of the stream. He adopts the same course as was practised by Masena when, threatened by the Austrians, he established himself, not on the River Linmat, but on the chain of the Albis behind, leaving his enemy to cross the river and occupy Zurich without molestation; and the same which Wellington afterward observed against this same Masena, in Portugal, when, instead of trying to defend the line of the River Tagus, on the Douro, he intrenched himself on the heights of the Busaco, and finally on those of the famous Torres Vedras.

A considerable stream, on its face, is one of the most formidable of all natural obstacles to the advance of an army. If not fordable, the necessity of bridges, or boats at best, seriously disturbs the regularity and combination of movement so important to advance movements; and even if fordable, the water is a great hindrance to active locomotion, and to keeping the arms and ammunition in a fit state for immediate use on reaching the enemy's shore. And yet, in spite of all theory, rivers have not often been successfully defended. Many of the most important battles of history have been fought in dispute of their passage, but in the majority of cases with bad result to the resisting side. Alexander the Great, at his passage of the Granicus, vanquished Darius and overthrew the Persian Kingdom; in the same way conquered Scythia at the passage of the Jaxartes, and India on the banks of the Hydaspes. Julius Cæsar led his forces over the Thames, rapidly, and overwhelmed the army of Britain. Gustavus crossed the Elbe in the face of his Saxon enemies, and overthrew them disastrously. Gustavus Adolphus, in like manner and with like effect, effected his passage of the Lech, and afterward of the Rhine. Marshal Villars crossed the Rhine in similar style. William III., at the head of his troops, swam the Boyne, on horseback, amid the hottest fire, and settled the fate of Ireland. Moreau crossed the Rhine and carried Kehl at the point of the bayonet, and the next year again crossed the same river at Diersheim in the face of the Austrians, inflicting upon them a terrible defeat, and three years after at the Inn penetrated what is called one of the strongest military lines in Europe. Wellington, in his Peninsular campaign, crossed the Doure in the face of Soult, seized Oporto and swept all before him. Bonaparte, in the campaign of Italy, broke the line of the Po at Valenza, of the Adda at Lodi, and, with less difficulty, drove the Austrians back from the Mincio and the Adige; in his German campaign, he crossed the Tagliamento in the face of the magnificent Austrian army; in his Polish campaign, he passed the Wkra and Vistula in spite of the Russians; and in his return from his Russian campaign the Beresina did not stop him, notwithstanding the extraordinary advantages it just then and there offered his enemies. In our own Revolution, perhaps our greatest defeat was sustained in contesting the passage of the Brandywine; and on the other hand one of our most glorious victories, Trenton, was gained by forcing the passage of the Delaware in the depth of winter. In the late Italian campaign, the world well remembers how small a part, after all, was played by the famous "elbows of the Mincio" in determining the final result. In fact, we believe it would be very difficult to designate a single instance in either ancient or modern warfare in which a river has afforded a prominent defence against a superior and determined enemy. Some mode of passage, either direct onset in front, or a flank movement up or down the stream, or surprise, or strategem, has always been found by which the natural obstacle has been overcome.

The rebel Gen. Lee, whose military skill and prudence all admit, has reserved his strength for a more defensible line than the banks of the Rappahannock. The reception our forces have already met with on the ridges beyond is a telling commentary upon the wisdom of his decision. It will be found that we shall have to pay far more to dislodge him from his present position than the passage of the river would have cost us under any circumstances. Probably he will not be able to maintain himself, even where he is, for any great length of time, but there can be no doubt that he has more of a chance there than in any other position he could have chosen. His conduct is justified by the best precedents, and should excite no surprise.

We take it for granted that Count Mejan, whilom French Consul at New-Orleans, has been permitted by our Government to withdraw from the Consular service at that port, although we do not remember to have seen any public announcement of the fact. From the day of Gen. Butler's capture of that rebel city, the Count found his position extremely disagreeable. Many things that he had previously been in the habit of doing—such as manifesting his intense sympathy with the rebellion—he found no longer practicable. If it had only been no longer politic, he could have got along with the difficulty. But Gen. Butler was a rude and vulgar man, who regarded treason as a mortal State offence, who held the robbery of mints and arsenals of the Government to be a terrible crime, and who consequently had not the slightest consideration for the more refined and educated principles of Count Mejan, who, while deriving the right to exercise his office from the American Government, thought it not amiss to encourage and aid the traitors who were aiming to destroy it. Gen. Butler would not allow this. Hence the Count was mad. Nay, more, he was vexed—indeed angry—and resolved to have Gen. Butler removed! It was a big contract—as well as a modest one—but the Count thought himself equal to it, as a letter of his, written on the 30th of May last to M. Thouvenel, sufficiently proves.

The letter (published by Mr. Seward, in his annual volume of State papers, pp. 421-2-3 and 4,) is one of the curiosities of the times, considered as the emanation of a foreigner stationed at New Orleans to look after the commercial interests of the French Government. Count Mejan advises M. Thouvenel that Gen. Butler's bad manners are not wholly excusable on the ground of ignorance. "Gen. Butler, knows how to be polite when he chooses," says the Count—but he chooses to be so never; he uses towards "the most respectable people" the most insulting language. "His first words are almost always, 'I will hang you'; or 'I will send you to Fort Jackson.'" The Count Mejan must have 'shadowed' Gen. Butler very closely to be justified in thus denouncing his "always first words" to the French Government. Having prepared M. Thouvenel to regard the General of the National Army with apprehension and disgust, the Count presents the following summary of Gen. Butler's public wrongs.

1. A vessel engaged in "violating the blockade" was captured, the letters on board were examined, and various mercantile houses of New Orleans made to pay some more or less considerable. A "Spanish house" had to pay $9,500; and "another house" was condemned to pay $12,000. Count Mejan does not say what the French Consul has to do with these cases, in which the willful violaters of our blockade were justly dealt with.

2. A "young German" who received a draft through one of the letters was threatened with Fort Jackson if he did not produce the amount within a given time. But, "on representations of the Consul of Hamburg, Gen. Butler gave up the matter," says the Count. Then he—Mr. Mejan—or the French Government?

3. Gen. Butler forced Mr. Cavas, "a respectable and rich Greek merchant," to come before him; and he thereupon put Mr. Cavas through a very searching examination in relation to certain sugars which that gentleman had in his possession. Count Mejan professes to quote the very language of Gen. Butler and Mr. Cavas, but he does not pretend to have been present. It is, of course, hearsay and ex parte.

4. Having related the grievances of higher importance of Spanish, German and Greek residents and merchants—none French—of New-Orleans, Count Mejan descends to the humbler classes of foreigners, and takes up the cause of the keepers of "coffee-houses, bar-rooms and billiard-rooms." "French, Spanish and Italian subjects, who have been made to pay new licenses by Gen. Butler.

After having completed this arraignment, Count Mejan, with unparalleled coolness and effrontery, admits in his letter to M. Thouvenel that he has no personal complaint against Gen. Butler in the premises, but it is solely his (Mejan's) regard for the free institutions of the United States and the violated Constitution of that country, that he impeaches Gen. Butler! Here is his language literally:

"I have had nothing personally to complain of with Gen. Butler, who is always very agreeable when I have relations with him; but I cannot admit that in a country whose existence is based upon absolute liberty and a written Constitution, Martial-law should be the absence of all law, and even of all regularity, and permit all the prescriptions of the Constitution to be set aside."

It is impossible for impudence to go further. There is such a thing, we suppose, as even a Count trying to "cover more territory than the law allows;" and the case of this Mejan who, in the absence of any cause of complaint in the interests of his own Government, lends himself to the work of hunting up all the loose street gossip of Jew and Gentile in regard to Gen. Butler's acts and conversation to prejudice him and his Government with foreign Governments, is a signal instance of official usurpation and insolence. The liberality that tolerates such a man in continued relations of business with this Government approaches too nearly to pusillanimity. From France or England such an intermeddler and tale-bearing fomenter of trouble would be expelled incontinently, if he did not pay a heavier penalty for his impertinence.

Our Force on the Rappahannock.—The precise strength of Burnside's army at present, we cannot give; but we know it to be quite safe to say, that if only forty thousand troops took part in the action of Saturday, less than one-fourth of its force was engaged. We do not include in this estimate Siegel's column, nor Banks' hypothetical column, but simply the troops under the immediate eye of Gen. Burnside. With Siegel's force and the force on the Blackwater, we do not suppose that two hundred and fifty thousand would be too high an estimate of the numbers of the army now encamping Northward. It is the knowledge of these vast resources, with the perfect belief in their value, now that we have learnt that they will be skillfully handled, that gives the public confidence in the success of the Winter campaign.

Jeff. Davis Arrived.—There being nothing particularly interesting going on in the vicinity of Richmond at the present time, we see Jeff. Davis has taken the opportunity of paying a flying visit to the West. He made a speech at Knoxville, Tenn., last Thursday, in which he expressed the opinion that the "tories" (Unionists) of East Tennessee is "exaggerated." If Parson Brownlow could only have been permitted to be present and answer him, we think the rebel chief would have got an "exaggerated" idea of the Unionism left in that part of the Confederacy. What was lacking in numbers would have been fully made up in the intensity of the patriotic sentiment of the crushed loyalists.

On Saturday, Jeff. Davis was at Murfreesboro, about twenty miles south of Nashville, where the rebel army in Tennessee seems to be concentrating, either to attack Nashville or to give Gen. Rosecrans battle, in case he advances. Hardee's Corps, which was reviewed by Bragg the day before Jeff. Davis' arrival, was reviewed by Davis himself on Saturday. Both chiefs must be supposed, therefore, to be familiar and perhaps pleased with "Hardee's Tactics." This must have been the only corps present worth looking at.

The visit of Jeff. Davis to the West, at this juncture, is somewhat remarkable. It argues either extraordinary confidence in the security of his grand army under Lee, at Fredericksburgh, or extraordinary urgency of affairs in the West, demanding his instant personal attention. We presume the latter is the case. We have heard lately of exclusive threats of Kentuckians and Tennesseans in the rebel army in Tennessee, not to serve the Confederacy another day, if they are required to retreat southward and give up the latter State to the Unionists. But their leaders have not yet been able to cope with Gen. Rosecrans and his powerful, well-organized army. What was to be done? Gen. Rosecrans was feared—he meant business. The rebel Generals had to decide at once what to have—a fight or a retreat. In this emergency—their fears aroused and their army threatening mutiny if they retreated—President Davis was loudly called for, and he has been obliged to leave his capital, only four hours distant from Fredericksburgh, at a moment when the fate of his ill-gotten dominion is trembling in the scale of battle, to save his cause from utter ruin in the West!

We have one consolation in these events. They prove that we are in the critical moments of the rebellion—that the crushing forces of our Government are at work upon it—and that its leaders are quaking and flying from point to point to avert the descending blows. With good progress a brief time longer, we hope to see the edifice of Southern rebellion in ruins.

Public Confidence.—Though there were, of course, a few persons in this City yesterday who croaked lugubriously after they had read the published news of Saturday's operations at Fredericksburgh, the City in general had a wonderfully cheerful, strong, firm feeling. The croakers found it hard work to convince any one that we had met with any serious repulse. There was no such feeling in the atmosphere as always pervades it after disaster—none such as there was after McClellan's retreat from the Chickahominy, or after Pope's fiasco. Nobody had his confidence in Burnside shaken; no one doubted the speedy success of the campaign of the Rappahannock. The knowledge seemed to be instinctive that the repulse of Sumner's Division was but a temporary and insignificant incident, that our force had not been at all called out or tested, and that the effort of Saturday, brave and great though it was, was nothing more than preliminary to the general contest that would soon open. The fact was clearly apprehended that we had immense forces which had not been called into action, and that the Winter campaign of the army included something more than an assault on the enemy's front. All these things contributed to the firm and cheerful feeling we have noted; and though there could be no exultation as over a victory, there was a perfect confidence in our army, in its leader, in the success of his campaign, and the pending route of the rebels and capture of Richmond.

Mr. Conway's Speech.—We invite attention to the speech of Hon. Martin F. Conway, of Kansas, recently delivered in the House of Representatives, in opposition to the admission of Western Virginia as a State, which will be found in the Times of this morning.

This speech possesses special interest in connection with the delay of the President in signing the bill, and the general belief that the fate of the measure, which has the importance of a momentous precedent, will furnish a clue to the policy of the Government in regard to the insurrectionary States. No one can read this speech without seeing that the measure in question involves considerations far higher and more far-reaching in their consequences than those generally brought to its decision.

Mason Jones To-Night.—Our new Irish orator is sure to have a very full house; for it is already announced by advertisement that all the seats in the Academy are already disposed of. This is a triumph in the way of lecturing, to be equaled only by the popularity of Jenny Lind, or some other great singer. The oration will be reported on Thursday evening next, that those who are disappointed to-night may avail themselves of another opportunity.

Aid to the Suffering Operatives of France.—In pursuance of a call, an informal meeting of New York Merchants was held in the new Reading Rooms of the Merchants' Exchange, Pine street, at 3 P. M., yesterday, to take some action toward relieving the sufferings of the French operatives. After some deliberation, it was decided, in order to get an expression of popular opinion in furtherance of the contemplated object, to hold a meeting in some public hall (probably Stuyvesant Institute) on some evening of this week, to be hereafter designated.

MORRILL'S GREAT FINANCIAL SCHEME.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Dec. 16.

[illegible] THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES?"

[illegible] Attorney-General, on this important question, has just been received, and in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury, at whose request it was given. The facts on which it is based are thus stated:

[illegible] Elizabeth City and Hampton, of Norfolk and Portsmouth, in the Commonwealth of Virginia, in 1861, persons commonly held by the laws of Virginia to be persons not citizens of the United States, and therefore contraband of war.

[illegible] citizens were numerous in the [illegible] I submit to you the question suggested by the Secretary of the Treasury, viz: 'Are colored persons of the United States, and therefore contraband of war, citizens?'"

[illegible] Attorney-General examines history [illegible] the days of Rome down to the founding. His conclusion is [illegible] that free persons, without distinction of color, in the United States, are citizens. A distinction [illegible] between the inherent rights of citizens and political privileges of certain classes. All citizens have a right to protection, but only certain citizens have the privileges of voting and holding offices, and only the public feel [illegible] confounded the two. A child [illegible] citizen, though not always privileged [illegible] The Dred Scott opinions are [illegible] void and of no authority, since the proceeding of the Supreme Court was only to settle the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court. [illegible] are simply cited to the respect due to the opinions of eminent gentlemen, and no [illegible] as follows:

[illegible] upon the whole matter, I give it as my opinion that a free person of color, mentioned in your letter, and in the United States, is a citizen of the United States, and, if otherwise qualified, is competent, according to the extent of power given to Congress, to be master of a vessel engaged in the coasting trade."

The opinion is marked by great analytic power and [illegible] and the author seems to have come [illegible] with the ripe accomplishments of a long life [illegible] and research. It will unquestionably [illegible] of the documentary treasures of our Attorney-General.

THE SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Senate Finance Committee is holding daily [illegible] and considering carefully the report of the Secretary of the Treasury. At their meeting [illegible] they took up some one of the general [illegible] and came to no definite conclusion. It was [illegible] that there is not a majority of the Committee favorable to the Secretary's [illegible] of course, are not the Committee at present [illegible] to propose in its stead. Action will probably be delayed until the Committee of Ways and Means shall have reported the Secretary's draft of the bill [illegible] applying his views, which, in answer [illegible] to be understood to have in process [illegible] the Committee.

THE ARMY AND NAVY BILLS.

The Committee on Ways and Means is still discussing [illegible] the Army and Navy bills, the former being nearly [illegible] and including appropriations for fortifications [illegible] of West Point. The deficiency bill will be next [illegible] and will necessarily be large in the present [illegible] the Secretaries being large in many [illegible] of the Government.

WHY THE SOLDIERS ARE NOT PAID.

[illegible] Department is able [illegible] only about $500,000 per day for the soldiers [illegible] while the current is $2,000,000. This [illegible] by the injury done the [illegible] of the manufactories to [illegible] by the injury done the [illegible] of the war of his just [illegible] to great damage in consequence [illegible] responsibility?

THE CASE OF COMMANDER FRENCH.

[illegible] French and his friends have been trying [illegible] to secure his reappointment to the navy [illegible] in the naval service, from which he was degraded [illegible] by order of the President, so will be remembered, for [illegible] the blockade of Mobile. Finally [illegible] the President consented to the appointment [illegible] French to investigate the facts, taking French's own letters as evidence, and it was agreed that the report of the Commission [illegible] should determine the propriety of his appointment. The Commission [illegible] of which Admiral Foote is President, has had the case under consideration, and [illegible] to the Navy Department that Commander French was guilty of neglect of duty; thus shutting the door upon his application.

THE CONVALESCENTS AGAIN.

[illegible] Senator Henry Wilson and Hon. Schuyler Colfax, visited Camp Convalescent, Camp Parole and Camp Stragglers on Monday. They found the remaining inmates in much better condition, but there are many convalescents which will be attended to.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Dec. 16.

The Postmaster-General, Mr. BLAIR, has rescinded all the orders heretofore made, excluding from the Post-office and mails of the United States certain newspapers presented by Grand Juries and otherwise represented as disloyal to the Government.

PAYMENT OF INTEREST IN COIN.

The members of the Committee of Ways and Means voted as follows to-day on Mr. WASHBURNE's resolution, declaring as the judgment of the House that there should be no legislation changing the existing law, providing for the payment of interest on the public debt in coin: Yeas—Messrs. Stratton, Morrill of Vermont, Morton, Hooper and Maynard. Mr. Stevens, only, voting in the negative. Messrs. Spaulding, Phelps of Missouri, and Corning were absent.

THE ILLINOIS AND MICHIGAN CANAL BILL.

The persistent obstacle of Messrs. WASHBURNE, Davis and others, compelled the friends of the Illinois and Michigan Canal Bill to consent to its postponement until the first Tuesday of January.

NOMINATIONS.

Nominations were presented to the Senate today as principal Clerk of the General Land Office, [illegible] and S. Wennerstrom, of Illinois, Agent for Colorado Territory.

APPEALS FROM THE DECISIONS OF COURTS.

Mr. Sherman's bill, introduced to-day, abrogating the only Article of War, provides for appeals from the decisions of Court-martial to the President, within six months of the date of the decision, in all cases involving dismissal of commissioned officers, or punishment by imprisonment or death of enlisted men, and gives the President power to grant a new trial, set aside the finding of the Court, or mitigate the punishment by changing its kind.

CONFISCATION AND REVENUE.

Senator SUMNER's bill, introduced to-day, by amendment of certain acts relating to confiscation and revenue, provides that the bona fide claims of any loyal citizen upon any ship, vessel or other property condemned, shall be enlisted out of the proceeds before such property can be awarded to the United States or any informer.

PROPRIETARY STAMPS.

Representations having been made to the Office of Internal Revenue that many persons who are required by the excise law to use proprietary stamps are neglecting to comply with the provision, the Commissioner has issued a circular instructing Collectors to enforce the penalties in all such cases.

MAKING NEW STATES.

Speech of Hon. Martin F. Conway, of Kansas, Delivered in the House of Representatives, Tuesday, Dec. 9, 1862.

The regular order of business being the consideration of the Senate Bill for the admission of the State of Western Virginia into the Union, Mr. CONWAY said:

I have no objection to the creation of a new State in Western Virginia. I believe the inhabitants of that section are thoroughly loyal; that they are opposed to Slavery, and would make a prosperous and powerful State. I would be most happy to vote for their admission, if their application came to us in a proper and constitutional form. I wish we had organized a territorial government in Western Virginia at the outset of the rebellion. We could then have passed an enabling act, and the Territory could now come forward and ask to be admitted as a State in a manner to admit of no exception or dispute.

This bill is not so much for the admission of a new State as it is for the division of an old one. Nevertheless, I would have no objection to that, were it presented under proper conditions. But the Constitution of the United States requires that no State shall be divided unless the consent of its Legislature be first obtained.

While I am willing to palliate, and even justify, at times, a liberal construction of the Constitution, for ends clearly necessary and beneficial, I cannot consent to measures which set at naught unquestionable and fundamental principles. If this Government has any lawful authority, it has it by reason of its constitutionality; and there is no Government at all outside of the Constitution.

I do not regard this proposed division of Virginia as having received that assent from the Legislature of the State which the Constitution requires. Here, of course, however, is a question; and the question turns on whether the State of Virginia, of which Mr. PIERPOINT is Governor, is the lawful State or not. I do not believe that it is.

This Pierpont State is an institution of very recent origin. It started into existence about two years ago, and is a spontaneous production of the soil. A number of individuals met at Wheeling, and, without any legal authority whatever, arranged a plan for a Government. Several persons have since been holding themselves out as officials of this organization, including PIERPOINT, the Governor; but to what extent it executes the actual functions of a Government does not satisfactorily appear.

It is true, the President of the United States has recognized this as the actual State of Virginia; and acting upon his sanction, the Senate has admitted its Senators into that body. But this is of no binding force upon us. On the contrary, if the President and Senate are wrong in so grave a matter, it is the more important that the House of Representatives should be right.

The argument in favor of the validity of the Wheeling Government is that the original State of Virginia fell into treason and became null and void, and caused a vacuum which could only be filled in this way. Now this is entirely unsatisfactory to me; for, in the first place, I do not see how a State can fall into treason; and secondly, if it should, what right would Mr. PIERPONT have to assume the office of Governor over any other individual who might wish it? Where did the law come from which gave him his warrant? From a mob or a mass meeting? Neither mobs nor mass meetings make laws under our system.

It seems to me that this presents a question of the utmost magnitude, as touching other matters than the one immediately under consideration. Eleven States have placed themselves in the same situation as Virginia; and in order to proceed toward them justly and properly, it is necessary to adopt correct legal principles at the outset. I have serious reason to believe that it is the intention of the President to encourage the formation of State organizations in all the seceded States. A policy seems about to be inaugurated looking to an assumption of State powers by a few individuals, wherever a military or other encampment can be effected in any of the rebellious districts. The utter and flagrant unconstitutionality of this scheme—I may say, its radically revolutionary character—ought to expose it to the reprobation of every loyal citizen and every member of this House. It aims at an utter subversion of our constitutional system. Its effects would be to consolidate all the powers of the Government in the hands of the Executive. With the admission of this new State, the President will have substantially created four Senators—two for Virginia and two for West Virginia. He will also have substantially created fifteen electoral votes for President, as belonging to the State of Virginia, and six or eight to belonging to the new State, beside the number of members of this House to which Western Virginia will be entitled, and also the number which may come in hereafter from the so-called Virginia itself, under Mr. PIERPONT's certificate.

Now, suppose this scheme is carried into the other seceded States, and if it be right here it is right anywhere; and if it is a good thing across the Potomac, it cannot be a bad thing in Tennessee or at Port Royal. Indeed, I am informed that steps have already been taken for similar action in Louisiana, Tennessee, North Carolina, and other parts of the South; and I have recently seen in one of the newspapers a letter signed by the President to one SHARP, recommending him for some such work in Tennessee. What will be the undoubted result of all this? Why, that the President, through his particular friends—few in number, and perhaps unprincipled in character—will exercise the Federal powers pertaining under the Constitution to all the seceded States. He will have his electors in all the seceded States, and everything else. How much better, pray, would this be than the slave oligarchy itself? Would it, indeed, be anything else than a new slave oligarchy of a most raw and disgusting nature?

The legal principles which set aside all the confused reasoning of the partisans of this projected usurpation are simple and explicit, and need only to be stated to be accepted by all persons conversant with the constitutional law of the country.

No State can commit treason, because treason is a crime, and an individual only can commit crime. No State is responsible for an act of secession, for such an act is contrary to the State Constitution, and is of no validity. No traitor can shield himself behind his State from the consequences of his guilt. If the whole personnel of a State abandon its functions, the State organization fails, and the sovereignty necessarily accrues to the United States. The country assumes the condition of ordinary Government territory. This, however, from a necessity which, on principles of public law, would make it valid.

A State without a Government is an impossibility. A State is that political organization of a community which invests it with a public faculty; in other words, the governmental establishment, including Constitution, functionaries and laws. Where there is no Government, therefore, there is no State, but an incoherent mass. A State is either in the Union or it is out of it. If it is in the Union it is, of course, to be respected as such. If it is out, then it is a foreign State, and its territory is liable to be conquered and held as other territory, subject to the sovereignty which has conquered it. Mexico was thus held by the United States. Territory held in this way is properly subject to a military occupancy, as California was, or to an ordinary peace establishment, as most of our Territories are.

The vacation of all the offices of a State, by a due conviction of their incumbents of any crime, and the failure of the people to redress according to the terms of the Constitution, or any event not provided for in the Constitution, by which it would be left without agents to carry it on, would, of course, necessitate its failure. But this would be the end of the State. No man, or set of men, of their own will, would be authorized to assume its functions. The unlegalized mass would have no rights in the premises. It might have power, but this would be to be tested. Of course, the elementary ultimate of every State is simply the power to maintain itself; but we are now speaking of legal rights. In any such case the territory would belong to the United States, as would any other territory which might fall into its possession through conquest, discovery or other cause. The United States, as the legitimate sovereign, would take steps for its proper government.

In my judgment, a State can only be out of the Union (unless through a constitutional amendment) when its people have accomplished a revolution, or, in other words, have, by force of arms, become either a belligerent Power or absolutely independent. In my opinion, the situation with regard to our seceded States is that they are out of the Union by having acquired at least a belligerent character, thus securing an international status incompatible with their Federal relations. This places them to us in the position of a foreign Power with whom we are at war, and makes their territory subject to our sovereign will whenever we take it from them.

The true policy of this Government, therefore, with regard to the seceded States, is to hold them as conquered territory wherever and whenever our arms are extended over them. This avoids the terrible dangers which I have alluded to, and is in harmony with the highest considerations of public utility, as well as the principles of public law. At any rate, I hope that Congress will not hurl its ban against the Executive Power on the ruins of our constitutional system.

But the question upon which the case now before us is raised is the Dean rebellion. The Constitution of that State was disregarded by the people, and they attempted another, and tried to get a new Government in action. They elected Mr. DEAN Governor. But the President, instead of recognizing it, very properly sent a detachment of infantry and cavalry to Newport. DEAN, who had set a mandrake in the field to operate his right, was met and defeated, without any bloodshed, and the whole thing ended in smoke. But DEAN himself was sent to the penitentiary.

The question came up for argument before the Supreme Court of the United States some time afterward, and was handled with vast ability. DANIEL WEBSTER spoke for the old establishment, and made one of his most powerful and learned arguments. The decision of the Court was with him.

The arguments and decision in this case throw a flood of light on the principles here involved, and I would respectfully recommend them to the perusal of the President and gentlemen of this House, for "there were giants in those days."

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The season ended here last night with a bumping house for Mr. GRAU, whose benefit it was, and a bewitching programme for the public, who, in this respect, also had a benefit. The performances opened with an act of "Ernani," followed by the entire opera of "I Puritani," and concluded by a new anthem. As if this were not sufficient, the audience, which was unusually brilliant and lively, indulged on encoring almost every well-known morceau. The performances continued at a late hour that we are compelled to defer any further notice of them until another opportunity. We may congratulate Mr. GRAU on the satisfactory conclusion of the season, and hope that he may not be not fortunate in Philadelphia, whither he is bound.

An apology had to be made for Mme. GUERRABELLA, who, having met with an accident, was unable to sing. Hence an act of "Traviata," announced for performance, was happily cancelled.

ARION CONCERT.—The members of the renowned singing society, "The Arion," will give a grand concert at the German Opera-house to-night, assisted by the members of the company, the full orchestra, Mr. S. B. MILLS, and other artists. The programme is in all respects excellent, and will without doubt be interpreted with unusual care.

WHO WILL BUY?

We are permitted to publish the following household letter, received by our friend, R. S. Burnam, Esq.:

JERUSALEM, City, 10, 1862.

DEAR FRIEND:— * * * * * You will not find Bitters mentioned made in the Holy Land, but the same fragrance pervading music pulse thrills even the mountain ridge that were traversed by patriarchs and apostles of old. We started early to ascend Mount Olivet, to behold the sun gild the minarets and towers of the devoted city, from the place where mourning, pierced by a thousand lamentations, should exalt the mind as well as the eye to the inspiration and beauty of the scene. Well is the voyager repaid for long travels, horrid roads, antediluvian cookery, squalid companionship, and the importunities of begging, thieving Arabs. Will would it have repaid you, O, thou man of commerce and the counting room, and yet might you have been reminded of your own city of New-York, for here, pointed upon a board nailed against one of the large but ancient olive trees under which the sacred martyrs toiled for the cause of a world eighteen hundred years ago, were these familiar figures—"S. T. 1860. X." Although inclined to sentiment, some would suppose a smile when Smith said, "He doesn't distilled, certain. Drake has been here with his Plantation Bitters." * * * * *

L. A. E.

We do not know who did it—but no doubt some invalid forever, cured by the Plantation Bitters, visited to advertise their virtues in a place from whence all knowledge flows.

It is well ascertained that no article was ever so efficacious, speedy and certain a cure for general debility as the Plantation Bitters.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and cultivate the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhea, Cholera and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They are the best Bitters in the world. They make the weak man strong, and are extolled by nature's great restorer. They are made of pure St. Croix Rum, the celebrated Calisaya Bark, Wintergreen, Sassafras-root, Anise, Dandelion, Burdock, Chamomile Flowers, etc., etc.

Dr. W. A. Childs, Surgeon of the Tenth Vermont Regiment, writes: "I wish every soldier had a bottle of Plantation Bitters. They are the most effective, perfect and harmless tonic I ever used."

The following is from the famous hotel proprietors at Washington:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4, 1862.

Messrs. P. H. DRAKE & Co.—Please send us twelve dozen Plantation Bitters. They are much liked by the guests of our house.

Respectfully yours,

SYKES, CHADWICK & CO.,

Proprietors Willard's Hotel.

"The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a long-standing and terrible Dyspepsia."

Rev. J. S. CATHORN, Rochester, N. Y.

Such is the language reaching us daily. No article ever had an equal sale. Under no circumstances will the pure standard of the materials used be departed from.

These Bitters are sold by all the principal druggists, grocers, hotels and restaurants. To cure each bottle bears the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature, on a steel plate label.

ELECTRICAL

DISCOVERIES AND WONDERFUL RESULTS.

The wonderful discoveries in ELECTRICAL Science by FRANKLIN, MORSE, and others, have conferred incalculable benefits upon our race, but nothing in comparison to what has already been accomplished, and is destined still further to be accomplished, in behalf of diseased humanity.

By the magic powers of Electricity, the tortures of the maniac are quieted, the palsied mind regains its powers, the dumb speak, contracted muscles relax, the blind see, tumors are reduced, ulcers heal, inflammations subside, the deaf hear, nervous irritation is allayed, the weak become strong, and every nerve, muscle, gland, tendon and tissue is brought into harmony and health.

DR. CHAMBERLIN would here announce an important discovery he has made in ELECTRICAL Science, for the removal of the most obstinate acute and chronic maladies, by means of the various modifications of Electricity.

He would also say that he HAS CURED, IS CURING, and further pledges himself TO CURE, a class of diseases that have in all ages, resisted the best medical skill and remedial agencies. Consultation free. An interesting pamphlet mailed to order. Address,

FROM PORT ROYAL.

ARRIVAL OF FIVE FUGITIVE SLAVES.

Their Statements Regarding Affairs in Charleston.

FEELING OF THE PEOPLE.

GREAT FEAR OF AN ATTACK.

EXTENSIVE DEFENSIVE PREPARATIONS.

THE COTTON CROP AT PORT ROYAL.

[From Our Special Correspondent.]

PORT ROYAL, S. C., Wednesday, Dec. 10, 1862.

On Saturday, the 22d ult., five negroes, four men and one woman, stealthily left Charleston in a boat, at 10½ o'clock at night. Impelled forward by the bright hopes of freedom, yet troubling with the fear of detection, they passed the pickets, and glided by the batteries, under cover of the night, and, reaching our blockading fleet, stepped upon the deck of the gunboat Memphis, safe from oppression and bondage. I have conversed with two of these men, who are carpenters, and are now working at their trade here. One of them, THOMAS PRINGLE, by name, is a very shrewd, intelligent fellow, and from him I learned many important facts, concerning the state of affairs in Charleston. Although a negro, he is evidently a man of a keen and observing nature, and I am impressed with the reliability of his statements. With regard to the state of feeling in Charleston, he says that the unanimity which has heretofore existed, no longer prevails. Constant fears of an attack upon the city by our iron-clad gunboats have engendered a very bitter feeling, and divided the people into two parties, as to the best course to be pursued in case our gunboats should succeed in passing the fleets and batteries, and reach the city. The "no surrender" party are in favor of burning the place, in event of this, while the others are violently opposed to such a sacrifice, preferring to eat humble pie and surrender the city, as was done at New-Orleans. The poorer classes are reduced to the most pitiable straits, and the bitter feeling of animosity which prevailed among them at the beginning of the war is completely changed, and they now pray for the coming of the Yankees to bring them food and relieve their distress. There is a greater scarcity of provisions than has existed, and prices were never known to range as high before during the war. Flour is worth $40 a barrel, tea $15 a pound, good meat 75c. a pound. The poor are all kept at the expense of the city.

The people expected that the city would be attacked about the 10th of last month, and a very great many have left. They are still moving away in dread of it, and a committee of Aldermen was convened to render assistance to those who were unable to get away. Large frame buildings have been erected at Greenville to accomodate a portion of them. The greater portion of the negroes were removed to Columbia at the commencement of the war, and with them is TOM's wife and family.

THEIR DEFENCES.

They are still active, and no means of defence is overlooked which can be adopted. There are five thousand troops in and about Charleston, and a new fort (Fort Ripley) has been constructed near the city. A row of spikes has been placed across the channel, extending from behind Ford Sumter to James Island, leaving only just sufficient room for a vessel to pass with difficulty. To these spikes large rafts of timber have been fastened by means of heavy chains.

THE RAMS.

The two rams are both completed, but have proved useless for offensive operations, the engines not being strong enough to drive them through the water with the requisite velocity. They are anchored in the harbor, and will be used as an additional means of defence. The negro, TOM, assisted in building them, and was able, therefore, to give me the details of their construction. The frames are built of timber eight inches thick, covered with one-inch plank; over this is a heavy armor of two layers of railroad iron, each bar (!) two inches thick and four inches wide, and placed parallel and diagonally. Each vessel is 120 feet long, having but six inches of the hull above water, and carries three 10-inch guns, and one still larger.

The ram consists of a single piece of iron, firmly secured by iron bolts, and projecting six feet from the bow. It was made in Charleston, at EASON's foundry, but the rest of the iron-work came from Greenville. The engines to propel them were taken from two steamers—one from the steamer Aid, but the name of the other steamer my negro informant could not remember. TOM, whose eyes and ears, it appears, were continually about him, one day on the pier overheard a gentleman, who was conversing with Gen. BEAUREGARD about the rams, remark that among other defects, the frame-work was altogether too frail to withstand the violent shock and concussion from the discharge of the guns. This, combined with the immense weight of their armament, would soon shatter the frame, and the vessels would fall to pieces. When the rams were completed about two months ago, the following plan of operations was laid out: A crew was sent to bring up the steamer Nashville from the Ogeechee River, to attack our vessels blockading the harbor. The rams were then to come to her assistance and annihilate our fleet. During the conflict three steamers lying in the harbor were to make their escape. This brilliant plan was subsequently abandoned, but whether from defects in the plan or from defects in the rams, is not positively known—probably from both causes.

Just before leaving Charleston, TOM was employed in the auction house of JOHN J. MIXSER, to whom almost all the cargoes which reached the city were consigned, and who, it seems, is a man of some considerable influence. There he frequently enjoyed the opportunity of hearing conversations, where opinions and sentiments were freely offered, from which he was enabled to form a very shrewd judgment of the general feeling prevailing. If some of these conversations he heard great satisfaction expressed at the results of the election in New-York. They seemed to derive comfort and encouragement from the election of SEYMOUR, as an indication that the people of the North will not support President LINCOLN in his Emancipation Proclamation.

In the course of conversation I gleaned from TOM a little of his personal history and his reasons for running away, which were as follows: He belonged to a lady in Charleston, to whom he was given, with with some other human chattels, by her sister. A short time before he ran away he was sent to work at the Camp of Instruction at Grahamville, but was so badly treated there that he soon returned to his mistress. His mistress then told him that she was getting very poor, that she would be obliged to sell him and the rest of her slaves. As he had been a faithful servant, however, she allowed him to choose his master, and sent him to one WHITNEY, a slave broker, who gave him a ticket entitling him to that privilege. TOM, in search of a master, then hired himself to Mr. MIXSER, an auctioneer, in whose store he picked up much valuable information from conversations within he overheard. His employer wished to purchase him, but could not agree with the broker as to price; and it was while this in dispute that TOM, convinced that he should never again see his wife, settled all difficulties by making off.

The other negro—LUCAS—who ran away at the same time with TOM, gave me an account of the [illegible] he was working and [illegible].

He was of work at Grahamville, and against his master's express orders, went to Charleston to see his wife. Having committed this sin, he was afraid to face the wrath of his master, and fled about for a season of concealing himself. He made a trap-door in the floor of his house, under which was a cave or cellar, and standing beneath the aperture a large tub full of water, he would stow himself away there when he heard his master coming. There was a carpet on the floor, and the trap being cut through the carpet, was almost imperceptible, and in this hole Lucas would lie concealed and tremble while his master, standing right over him, uttered terrible threats of death if he caught him. In this way he hid himself for several days, and finally escaped with his wife.

From statements which I have received from negroes, who have made their escape to this place from Charleston, I am led to believe that at the bombardment of Fort Sumter, the rebels met with a very severe loss of life, notwithstanding their assertion that not a single man was killed. I was assured at one time by a negro that he saw the dead bodies brought from the batteries on Sullivan's Island, at night, in sixteen cars, and this belief is now confirmed in my mind by what I learned from Israel. He told me that two weeks after that affair he was employed to pump out the floating battery, which was used against the fort—HARRISON's Battery I think it was called—and that during the work three corpses were brought to light, which were evidently mangled by shell. The negro was threatened with hanging if he revealed the fact to a soul, and there is no doubt that the number of deaths resulting from that affair was kept secret from the citizens of Charleston themselves, and when the truth is made known, it will be found to be very different from what their reports have led us to suppose.

These negroes declared to me with enthusiasm that the slaves in and around Charleston are ripe for revolt, and if an army of 3,000 or 4,000 were to enter that city they would immediately rise against their masters. In reference to their fighting qualities he instanced a case which occurred some two years ago, when two negroes set the whole city in a turmoil. They refused to work in the work-house, and armed only with clubs, they broke away, knocking down all who attempted to oppose them, and finally possessing themselves of a heap of macadamized stones, which were intended to mend a road, they kept a large crowd at bay with these missiles. Two companies of the militia were called out finally to capture them, and many of the soldiers were seriously wounded in the attempt. There were three steamers in the harbor when these men left, one of which had arrived a week before their departure.

The cotton crop here will be very small and insignificant beside what the exaggerated statements of some persons have led the North to expect. On the several islands, excepting Port Royal and Hilton Head Island, enough cotton may perhaps be gathered to pay the expenses incurred; this, however, is taking a very favorable view of it. The reasons assigned for this large deficit are numerous, and among them the following: The ground was not manured to any extent, and the plantations superintended by men who possessed no knowledge of the manner of cultivating the plant. Many of these superintendents, to whom are assigned plantations, are young men, wanting the ability even to manage the negroes, or properly conduct affairs on the plantation. The result of this has been a want of system and uniformity of action among them with regard to their treatment. If the negroes and their conflicting promises to them has produced a bad effect and general confusion, the giving out of rations and liberal distribution of clothing to the negroes, has made them think that the Government intends and is bound to take care of them, and they therefore see no necessity for work. Perhaps, too, the sudden change and "let up" from compulsory labor, has naturally produced a corresponding extreme of idleness. The inefficiency of many of the superintendents, and the "petting system" pursued by some of them, have been fruitful of evil. The deferring of the payments to the plantation laborers for three or four months, has also produced dissatisfaction among them. The results of the labor, viewed in a pecuniary light, are insignificant, but, perhaps, quite as good as was anticipated here. The corn, potatoes, rice, &c., raised by the negro-labor are nearly sufficient to support those originally belonging to the islands; but many others have come in who have to be provided for. The corn and potatoes the negroes were sufficiently provided to plant in season, and most of these crops were in the ground, or the soil prepared for them, before these superintendents took charge of the plantations. The cotton was not planted till after the proper season, and this cause, with the bad working and the cotton-worm, will account for the small results. Altogether, not over two hundred thousand pounds of ginned cotton will be sent North. This I consider a very fair estimate.

Having these things in mind, I am of opinion—and so are some of those who have engaged in the experiment as superintendents of plantations, and with whom I have conversed—that only private enterprise can make these laborers self-supporting and profitable, and remove the burden of them from the Government. The only way to make them appreciate freedom, is to make them accept the responsibilities as well as the blessings of liberty. B. J. S.

NEWS FROM THE SOUTH.

Extracts from Late Richmond Papers.

The following items of news are obtained by the agent of the Associated Press, from papers received by flag of truce at Fortress Monroe. The dates are to Saturday last:

In Richmond the prices of all articles have greatly advanced. Turkies are selling from $3@$10. Butter is $2 a pound.

The Grand-Master of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of South Carolina, has received an application from the masons in the Forty-Eighth Regiment of New-York Volunteers, stationed at Hilton Head, asking in what way a dispensation can be granted to them to open a "Traveling Lodge," and offering to make the proper remittance that their purpose may be carried out, and to work under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of the State.

The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th instant says:

"The Commanding General of the Military District composed of the State of Texas, having made a requisition upon the Governor of that State for not less than 5,000 militia for coast defence, to prevent further invasion of Texas, Gov. LUBBOCK had made an appeal for that number of volunteers from the State."

A sloop-of-war arrived at Charleston, S. C., on Friday, from Nassau, with 106 bags of salt.

Commodore WILKES, of the Yankee fleet, is annoying the good people of the Bahamas very much by his manner of interference in the commerce of those islands.

The Richmond Whig says:

"It has been said that we have no mechanics in this country. The conscript act, however, has worked wonders in this respect. Shoemakers, tanners, coppersmiths, blacksmiths, machinists, wagonmakers, millwrights and carpenters, etc., are multiplying rapidly."

THOMAS L. ROSS, Confederate States Marshal of Georgia, was shot dead on Saturday last, in Marietta, Georgia.

The Richmond Dispatch, of the 11th inst., says:

"The Confederate Government have decided to send North PRYOR LEWIS and JOHN SCULLY, convicted about a year ago as 'spies,' and sentenced by Court-martial to be hung. When they get North their revelations will, doubtless, be looked for with much interest."

The arson of Rev. Mr. GRAVES, of North Carolina, was effected in Orange County, by a detective sent there from Richmond for that purpose. He found him conducting services in a Presbyterian Church, slept with him that night, and took him to Richmond the next day.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Thursday, Dec. 11.

There are thirteen Federal blockades off Charleston to-day.

[ARREST FOR TREASON IN KNOXVILLE.

The Daily Mississippian of Dec. 2, says:

"ANDREW JACKSON, a prominent citizen of Knoxville,

AFFAIRS IN NORTH CAROLINA.

The Lynchburgh (Va.) Daily Republican of Dec. 12, says:

"Gov. VANCE, of North Carolina, has issued a proclamation prohibiting, for the space of thirty days, the transportation from the State, of the following-named articles: Salt, beeves, pork, beef, corn, meal, flour, potatoes, shoes, leather, hides, cotton-cloth, yarn and woolen cloth."

A CAPTURE.

Five Yankees, together with 400 sacks of salt and 2,000 pairs of boots, were captured at Pascagoula, Ala. They were taken to Mobile.

DANGER TO MOBILE.

The Charleston Mercury says:

"We have had great apprehensions concerning Mobile. Gen. FORREST's health is bad, and we fear much labor has been thrown away.

"Gen. FORREST's force is designed to cooperate with the Yankee forces at Suffolk in a demonstration against Richmond, either by a direct advance upon Petersburgh or by attempting to seize our railroad communications at Weldon."

SHOT MANUFACTORY AT PETERSBURGH.

Mr. JAMES DOBBINS has commenced the manufacture of shot in Petersburgh, Va., and his works are in successful operation. The steeple of the old Presbyterian Church has been converted into a shot tower.

THE EXPEDITION FROM HILTON HEAD.

Mystery still envelopes the design of the Yankees, who lately left Hilton Head in the fleet. We think the whole surplus Yankee force of the department has been sent to cooperate in the last overwhelming effort of the enemy to capture Richmond.

CONSULAR CERTIFICATES.

The Charleston Courier very properly asks:

"How long shall we endure and allow the operation and effects of the consular certificates, which is neutral in everything except screaming speculators, extortioners and skulks who, after voting and exercising the rights of American citizenship, have discovered at the hour of danger, that they once had other allegiance. Should not notice be given that the functions of all Consols holding exequatur from LINCOLN or any President of the United States, will not be recognized by any Confederate authority? This subject demands the earliest attention of Congress, soon to reassemble."

CAPTURE OF A STEAMER.

"The Abolition steamer Lone Star, from New-Orleans, was captured recently near Plaquemine, where she had been after sugar. Her crew, ten in number, were captured."

PRISONERS AT MOBILE.

MOBILE, Tuesday, Dec. 9.

Twenty-five Federals, captured near Coffeeville yesterday, were brought in to-day.

The cars are running from Grand Junction, and the telegraph is working.

A man just from Yokenahatchie reports the enemy, 40,000 strong, crossing the river. They burned a portion of the town of Water Valley. McCULLOCH, the Arkansas Jayhawker, was killed in the fight at Coffeeville.

THE SUBJUGATION OF THE SOUTH.

The Richmond Examiner says:

"The preparations of the United States to subjugate the South are now truly gigantic. In the East, West and North, on land and water, everywhere and on all sides afar, the movements of the Federal armies and fleets indicate a zeal, a hope, a fanaticism, a desperate avidity that should banish from every Southerner's mind all thoughts of an early peace, and nerve every loyal Southern hand for a battle, in which there will be no quarter. Northern Virginia is again overrun; Richmond, Petersburgh, Weldon, Charleston and Mobile are once more threatened; Texas, undefended, lies helpless and bleeding, in the power of the enemy. Forces all being prepared in Missouri and Kansas for the invasion of Arkansas. The communication between the West and Richmond are menaced at Chattanooga and Knoxville, and the Mississippi and tributaries are bristling with gunboats for operation as soon as the floods come."

THE PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Dec. 15.

Mr. KING, of New-York, (Rep.,) presented a petition protesting against the action of the Advisory Board of the Navy.

Mr. KING also presented a petition in favor of a General Bankrupt act.

Mr. FIELD presented a petition asking for bounty for sick and wounded soldiers.

Mr. FESSENDEN, of Maine, (Rep.,) from the Committee on Finance, reported back the bill concerning the judgment in the suits brought by the United States, with the recommendation that the amendment of the House be disagreed to. The recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Mr. FESSENDEN presented a letter from Mr. FRANCIS, of Maryland, asking to be excused from further service on the Committee on Finance, on account of ill-health.

Mr. FRANCIS was excused, and the Vice-President appointed Mr. RICE, of Minnesota, to fill the vacancy.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Rep.,) from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported back the bill to abolish the grade of Medical Officers in the service of the United States, with the recommendation that it do not pass.

Mr. SHERMAN, of Ohio, (Rep.,) introduced a bill to amend the act providing for duties on imports, and the act to confiscate property used for insurrectionary purposes. Referred.

Mr. LANE, of Kansas, (Rep.,) introduced a bill to provide for the extinction of the Indian titles in Kansas, and provide for the removal of the Indians. Referred.

Mr. COLLAMER, of Vermont, (Rep.,) offered a resolution requesting the President, if not inconsistent with the public interests, to transmit to the Senate the report and accompanying documents of Hon. REVERDY JOHNSON as Commissioner of the United States, during the last Summer, at New-Orleans. Adopted.

Mr. COLLAMER presented the credentials of Hon. SOLOMON FOOT, reelected Senator from the State of Vermont for six years, from the 4th of March, 1863. They were placed on file.

Mr. DAVIS, of Kentucky, (Union,) offered a resolution, that after it had become manifest that an insurrection against the United States was about to break out in some of the Southern States, JAMES BUCHANAN, then President, from sympathy with the conspirators and their treasonable projects, failed to take the necessary and proper measures to prevent it; wherefore, he should receive the censure and condemnation of the Senate and of the American people. Laid over.

Mr. FIELD offered a resolution, instructing the Committee on Foreign Relations to inquire whether some method cannot be devised to manifest the sympathy of Congress with the suffering Lancashire operatives. Ordered to be printed.

Mr. WRIGHT, of Indiana, (Union,) offered a resolution that the Committee on the Judiciary be instructed to inquire into the expediency of providing by act of Congress that any loyal citizen of the United States who has sustained damage from the troops of the States engaged in rebellion, may set off such damages against any claim or demand against him in any action at law by any such rebellious States, or the agents or trustees of such States, or in any case where such claim or demand is for the use or benefit of such States. Adopted.

On motion of Mr. HALE, of New-Hampshire, (Rep.,) the motion to indefinitely postpone the bill providing for the confirmation by the Senate of the volunteer appointments to the navy, was reconsidered. The bill was taken up and discussed until the expiration of the morning hour, when the resolution relative to certain citizens of Delaware was taken up.

Mr. DAVIS proceeded to speak at length in favor of the resolution, arguing that the President has no authority under the Constitution to make any such arrests. The President had no right to suspend a law or decline its execution.

After further argument Mr. DAVIS admitted that the President was excusable in arresting Gov. MOREHEAD, of Kentucky. It was even commendable. It would not have been inexcusable to have arrested the leaders of the Hartford Convention; nor for BUCHANAN to have arrested PHILLIPS, CHENEVER, and those miserable miscreants. He denied that Slavery was the cause of the war. It was because New-England and other States had abolished Slavery and commenced a crusade against the States which held on to it. He thought the people would arise and reconstruct this Union, and leave Massachusetts out in the cold and frozen regions. If the war had been carried on according to the principles of the Crittenden Compromise, it would have been finished long ago.

The Senate then went into Executive session, and at its conclusion, adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Dec. 15.

Mr. BLAKE, of Ohio, (Rep.,) introduced a bill to establish a postal money-order system. Referred.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, (Rep.,) introduced a bill, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, prescribing the time and places for holding Circuit Court in the District of Iowa, Minnesota and Kansas.

Mr. BENNETT introduced a bill, which was referred, providing for the development of the mineral resources of the United States from the public domain.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, (Rep.,) offered the following:

Resolved, That, in the judgment of the House, there should be no legislation changing the existing laws providing for the payment of interest on the public debt in coin.

The resolution passed by a vote of 81 against 41.

Mr. LAW, of Indiana, (Dem.,) offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Committee of Ways and Means be instructed to inquire into the expediency of revising the tariff increasing the duty on foreign goods not of prime necessity, so that the importation of foreign goods shall not exceed the value exported of American growth and manufacture, counter to all specie.

Mr. ALLEN offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Committee on Military Affairs to inquire into the expediency and necessity of discharging all unfit commissioned and non-commissioned officers from the service.

Mr. WILSON offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Committee of Military Affairs to inquire into the expediency of granting bounties to the soldiers enlisting in the regular or volunteer army since the 4th of March, 1861, and who may have served, or who may hereafter serve, for less than two years, and report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. SAMUEL C. FESSENDEN offered the following:

Resolved, That the Proclamation of the President of the date Sept. 22, 1862, is warranted by the Constitution; that the policy of emancipation, as indicated therein, is well adapted to hasten the restoration of peace, is well chosen as a war measure, and is an exercise of power with proper regard to the rights of citizens and the perpetuity of a Free Government.

Mr. HOLMAN, of Indiana, (Dem.,) moved to lay the resolution on the table. Disagreed to—63 against 80.

The resolution was then adopted by a vote of 76 against 51.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Rep.,) from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported an Army Appropriation bill for the year ending in June, 1864, which was made the special order for Thursday.

Mr. CONWAY, of Kansas, (Rep.,) offered the following:

Resolved—That Freedom and Slavery cannot co-exist in the same Government, without producing endless strife and civil war; that "a house divided against itself cannot stand," and that "this nation must be all free or all slave."

Resolved—That the American Union consists of those States which are now loyal to the Federal Constitution.

Resolved—That whether the seceded States have accomplished a revolution or not, they have lost their place in the Union, and all right to its guarantees; and that the Union has a claim to their territory, never to be relinquished, but to be asserted by arms or otherwise, now and hereafter.

Resolved, That the restoration of the Union, as it existed prior to the rebellion, would be a greater calamity than the rebellion itself, as it would give new life to the "irrepressible conflict," and entail upon the nation another cycle of bitter contention and civil war.

Resolved, That the seceded States can never be put down but by being regarded as out of constitutional relations with the Union, and by being assailed upon principles of ordinary warfare as between separate nations.

Resolved, That if any person in the employment of the United States, in either the legislative or executive branches, should propose to compromise, or in any way accept or advise the acceptance of any such proposition, on any basis which would restore the Slave Power to its former supremacy in the Government; or by any new compromise or amendment to the Constitution, recognize Slavery as an element of political power, such person will be guilty of a high crime.

Resolved, That the superior resources and military prowess of the North in this struggle are beyond dispute, and that the question of its success turns not upon its relative ability, but on the fitness of its Chief Executive Magistrate for giving effect to its energy.

Resolved, That it is unsafe to intrust the execution of any system of administration to persons who are not in cordial sympathy therewith; and that no change of policy in the conduct of the men is more than nominal which is not accompanied by a complete change in the personnel of the Executive Department.

Resolved, That it is a matter for serious reflection whether another election of President must not supervene before the rightful authority of the nation can be established; and whether, in the meantime, it is not a flagrant waste of our energies to continue the war.

Resolved, That unless the Army of the West shall have swept through the valley of the Mississippi to its mouth, and the Army of the Potomac annihilated the legions of LEE and JACKSON, thus subverting the military power of the rebellion, within a reasonable time, the best interests of the country and humanity will require a cessation of hostilities.

Resolved, That the States of the North, comprising the American nation, and wielding its power, must ever remain one and indivisible on the basis of freedom for all, without distinction of race, color or condition; that their mission must ever be to extend their own civilization over the entire continent, and that whatever demagogues, difficulties, checks or defeats they may encounter, they must forever cherish and pursue the inspiring ideal of nationality and continental dominion.

On motion of Mr. MAYNARD, of Tennessee, (Union,) these resolutions were tabled by a vote of 122 Yeas to 1 Nay. Mr. CONWAY was the only one who voted in the negative.

Mr. MAYNARD said this was the first formal proposition asserting the dissolution of the Union and the recognition of the Southern Confederacy.

Mr. NIBLACK, of Mississippi, (Dem.,) asked, but did not obtain, leave to offer the following:

Resolved, That while the Government of the United States is engaged in actual warfare against the unlawful combinations of its own citizens in open rebellion against its constitutional authority, no person or persons owing allegiance (or) if have a right by reason of the fact, or his or their belief of the existence of the fact, that the war is not prosecuted for legitimate constitutional means, to withhold his or their support to the efforts of the Government in the prosecution of the war, or to resist the enforcement of the laws for raising, maintaining and regulating the army and navy, or the laws imposing taxes and burdens for the payment of the expenses of the war; and if any person or persons in the United States, thus owing allegiance, shall, for the reasons or pretended reasons aforesaid, resist the enforcement of such laws, or persuade, instigate or incite other persons to resist them, they ought to be held guilty of a high crime, and punished with death or imprisonment in the Penitentiary, and that the Committee on the Judiciary be, and is hereby instructed to consider the propriety and necessity of providing by law for the punishment of such cases, and report by bill or otherwise.

The House passed the Senate joint resolution, additionally increasing the bonds of the Superintendent of Public Printing $40,000.

On motion of Mr. DAWES, of Massachusetts, (Rep.,) the bill for the construction of the Illinois and Michigan Ship Canal was postponed until the first Tuesday in January.

Mr. STARKE, of Indiana (Rep.) offered a resolution which passed, calling on the Secretary of the Interior to state whether the permanent annuities to the Miami Indians under the treaty of 1854–1855 have been paid.

Mr. ROSCOE CONKLING, of New-York (Rep.,) introduced a joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to dispatch an armed vessel, or should it be necessary two vessels, to convoy any ship or ships carrying contributions for the relief of the starving operatives of England.

The resolution was rejected by a vote of 46 to 71.

Mr. VAN WYCK of New-York (Rep.,) offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Whereas, Grievous delays happen in the payment of money due soldiers, and therefore in order to ascertain if any and what legislation may be necessary to remedy such delays,

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be requested to furnish to the House of Representatives the reasons why the requisitions of the Paymasters in the army are not promptly filled.

Mr. POMEROY offered the following:

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives, That the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States be and is hereby authorized and empowered to pay in coin any portion of the bonded public debt maturing and falling due previous to the first day of January, 1864.

Mr. POMEROY, of Kansas, (Rep.,) in reply to a question by Mr. COX, said there were only between two and three millions maturing within the time covered by the resolution. The public faith was pledged to the payment of all bonds in coin.

The resolution was referred to the Committee of Ways and Means.

Mr. CALVERT, of Maryland, (Union,) offered a resolution calling on the Secretary of War to furnish the reports of the Quartermaster for the past three months concerning the expenditures for all contrabands, so called, at Beaufort, South Carolina. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs by a vote of 77 against 42.

On motion of Mr. ANCONA, of Pennsylvania (Dem.) it was resolved that the Secretary of War be directed to inform the House whether any steps have been taken for the relief of Sutlers and other non-combatants held as prisoners of war at Richmond, or elsewhere.

Mr. BARNES, of Virginia, (Union,) introduced a bill to compensate loyal citizens for property taken for the use of the United States. Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. PENDLETON, of Ohio, (Dem.,) offered the following, and demanded the previous question on its passage:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to inform the House, if in his judgment not incompatible with the public interest, whether in any oath of allegiance or parole required to be taken by any person, now or lately held in custody by the authorities of the United States, there was inserted a clause to the effect that he should not bring suits for the recovery of damages for such imprisonment, or that he should not oppose by speech or otherwise the War measures of the Administration.

On motion of Mr. STEVENS the resolution was tabled, 78 against 42.

Mr. PENDLETON offered a resolution calling upon the Secretary of War to furnish the number of volunteers from each State of the 75,000 for three months, the number under the government calls, distinguishing the loyal from the disloyal States.

On motion of Mr. STEVENS the resolution was tabled.

Mr. GURLEY, of Ohio, (Rep.,) offered a resolution which was adopted, calling upon the President to furnish all correspondence between the President and any Representative since the campaign of the Fremont mountaineers.

Mr. KASSON, of Illinois, (Rep.,) offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Committee on Territories to inquire into the expediency of establishing a Territorial Government for that region of country in which are situated the Salmon River gold mines.

On motion of Mr. MALLORY, of Kentucky, (Union,) a resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on Ways and Means to inquire into the expediency of taxing the bonds of Canal Companies.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union on President LINCOLN's Message.

COURT-MARTIAL OF GEN. PORTER.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Dec. 15.

The Court-martial in Gen. Porter's case met at 11 o'clock.

Gen. McDowell was recalled, and asked a few questions, but no new facts were elicited.

Thos. E. Mouraland and J. L. Cherry, telegraphic operators, were examined with regard to the messages referred to in the testimony of Gen. Pope, as being transmitted by Gen. Porter to Gen. Burnside, severely criticising the military operations of Gen. Pope.

The counsel for the defence, while not objecting to the line of testimony, contended that these dispatches, and others which they propose to introduce, indicate on the contrary not a determination on the part of the accused to do his duty, and were transmitted only to give necessary information.

Objections being raised to the Counsel being allowed longer to address the Court directly, as much delay was caused thereby, the Court was cleared and the original course of having the accused make such arguments and objections as he desired to do in person was adopted.

Col. Speed Butler, Aid-de-Camp to Gen. Pope, was next examined. He testified to Griffin's Brigade of Porter's Corps being at Centreville on and during the battle of the 29th.

At the request of the Judge Advocate the Court adjourned until Thursday, in order to afford him time to prepare certain testimony, which he proposed to introduce.

THE McDOWELL COURT OF INQUIRY.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Dec. 15.

In the McDowell Court of Inquiry, to-day, Col. SHEIRES was again examined, with reference to protection accorded to alleged rebel property.

Afterward the Court delayed action for several hours to allow Gen. McDowell time to arrange certain papers for presentation to them as testimony, and after their presentation adjourned.
